HOME DESTROYED - Fire completely destroyed this $6,500 mobile home in Kings Beach Thursday morning. Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Walsh, the Hunt's Trailer Park home was completely engulfed in flames when fire crews and equipment arrived on the scene. Fire Chief Charles Ridgeway said the cause of the blaze was believed to be a faulty oil heater. The Walsh's pet dog suffocated in the fire, Ridgeway noted, however, no persons were in the mobile home at the time of the blaze. - Sun Photo

Agency approves basin logging by Fibreboard

A timber operating permit was granted Wednesday to Fibreboard Corp. by California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency to permit controlled logging in 9,000 acres in the Placer County portion of Tahoe Basin.

Permit conditions are that the corporation follow provisions imposed on Feather River Lumber Co. which is harvesting at the North Shore, and also the California Forest Practices Act.

Harvesting is to begin May 1, according to a spokesman.

Richard (Dick) Heikka, Placer County planning director, said the permit will be renewable annually. He said Fibreboard's past timber harvesting practices have been excellent.

Fibreboard apparently has never been required to get a permit before. Heikka indicated that in view of the California agency's role in regulating basin development, it was felt Fibreboard should get the agency's approval for harvesting.

Commercial logging is not permitted on the Nevada side of the basin, according to the general plan adopted by the now-defunct Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

Later Wednesday, at a meeting of the bi-state Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, Ivan Sack, a Nevada member, said that before the Nevada agency ceased existence, it was decided that commercial logging on that side of the basin would not be allowed, at least until California has has completed studies now under way of forestry practices on its side.

It is possible that a common plan for both California and Nevada sided of the Basin might be developed, Sack indicated.

The California agency adopted an amendment to an ordinance to permit septic tanks for single-family dwellings where sewage export facilities are not available.

California law says export facilities must be available in Tahoe Basin by Jan. 1, 1972.

The agency approved the principle of a proposed land exchange by which some 700 acres of private timberland in Ward Creek Valley would become public property.

Heikka commented that the agency's action will aid in negotiating the property swap.

Water being lowered at Boca for new boat ramp

Water officials have begun evacuating about 6,000 acre feet of water from Boca Reservoir to get the surface down far enough to permit the US Forest Service to install a boat launching ramp.

The Forest Service construction is part of a planned extensive project to develop a comprehensive outdoor, water-oriented recreational area around the Boca, Prosser Creek and Stampede Reservoir complex in the Truckee Rive drainage just west of the Nevada border in California.

Boca is located on the Little Truckee River just above the point where it dumps into the main river channel and four miles downstream from the new $16 million Stampede Dam on the Little Truckee.

Federal watermaster Claude Dukes said the water released from Boca will be on top of Floriston rates, meaning all of the 200 cubic feet per second for a 15-day period will flow into Pyramid Lake. It appears highly doubtful Interior Department operating criteria will permit any of the Boca water to be diverted at Derby Dam to supplement storage in Lahontan Reservoir.

Dukes said the Boca evacuation is expected to be completed by May 1 and installation of the boat ramp will be completed 30 days later.

When the Boca drawdown is finished, the reservoir will hold about 21,000 acre feet, roughly half of its 40,800 acre-foot capacity.

Water which normally would have flowed into Boca during the six-week period will be impounded in Stampede and available to the downstream reservoir later in the irrigation season if needed down the Truckee in Nevada.

Meanwhile, Dukes reported has begun storing in Prosser Creek, impounding all of that stream's flow except for minimum releases to maintain the fishery below the dam to the Truckee. He said it appears Prosser will fill to its 30,000 acre-foot capacity this spring for fishery and recreational use. That water may be available for exchange, if needed, later on in the year.

Progress for Truckee

A $750,000 dream to rebuild and revitalize Truckee's downtown area to the mood of the 1870's is fast taking shape.

Already townsfolk have formed a task force to formulate plans for a project they hope will be funded and in operation by early spring, next year.

The seven-man task force committee is heading a town election that will create a non-profit corporation to administer funds for the restoration plan.

Stephanie Anderson, chairman of the task force group, said 15 names will be submitted on the ballot and that a seven-man board of directors for the corporation will be voted by various segments of the community.

A chief headache facing the restoration committee concerns where to get the $750,000. Presently the group is toying with the notion of a 70 per cent federal funding to be financed by one of three federal agencies. The agencies include the Office of Economic Development Planning, the Economic Development Agency and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Regardless of which agency is selected for federal financing, the group must have 30 per cent matching funds to qualify.

Besides restoring Truckee's downtown area to one of gas lights and board walks, the project is expected to lend a heavy boost to employment problems in the local area.

Mrs. Anderson said, "All local merchants in the proposed restoration area of downtown Truckee have pledged full support to the plan and they have indicated they will finance restoring their own store and shop fronts to compliment the theme."

Task force members besides Mrs. Anderson include her husband, Duane Anderson, Joe Aguera, George Pifer, Herb Crenshaw, Daisy Foote and Les Geary, manager of Donner-Truckee Chamber of Commerce.

Faradg Gilan - Farr, designer and land planner from Tahoe City, has already masterplanned the historic restoration which will include controlled vehicular access and storage, landscaping and park areas. According to Mrs. Anderson the planners' service are cost free to Truckee.

Plan reforestation for old Donner burn

Reforestation of 508 acres on the Donner Burn, seven miles north of Truckee, will get underway in the next several weeks, according to Truckee Ranger District officials.

The district awarded a contract for the project to Pacific Reforestation of Lake Oswego, Oregon. Cost for the reforesting will amount to $9,956.90. The work will increase the acreage planted since the 1960 fire to some 4,100 acres, the Ranger District reported.

The Oregon based operation will plant 225,000 seedlings. The two-year-old seedlings were acquired from the Mt. Shasta Nursery. Total costs for the tree planting will amount to about $40 per acre, Ranger District officials said. The $40 will include the cost for the seedlings, the contract and administration by U.S. Forest Service personnel.

Unplugged propane pipe blamed for explosion

Truckee Fire Marshall Ruben Maki said Monday that he has completed his investigation of the propane gas explosion that rooted the John W. Carrolls from their newly purchased home two weeks ago.

Ruben said all indications are that a ½-inch unplugged T-pipe on the main line under the six-room house allowed the propane to leak, and thus the ignition point of the explosion.

The fire marshall said he was winding up his report of the explosion and would forward it to the Trans American Insurance Co. in Truckee.

Both Carroll, 53, and his wife, Ann, 50, were injured in the blast that brought their home down to its foundation. Mrs. Carroll received a broken left arm from falling debris and underwent surgery at Tahoe Forest Hospital where both she and her husband were treated.

Carroll was burned about the face and on both arms and hands. He and his wife were released last week and are living at the Buckaroo Trailer Court in Truckee.

Asked whether he is planning to rebuild his fallen home, Carroll said he is undecided and would have to check zoning regulations for any possible new construction.

Placer rabies clinic

Dr. Gordon Seck, Director of Health and Medical Services - Health Officer for Placer County Health Department, has stated that a series of anti-rabies vaccination clinics for dogs will be held this spring throughout Placer County. These clinics will be sponsored by local veterinarians and will offer protection against rabies at a special reduced rate of $2 for each inoculation.

The vaccination of dogs against rabies was made mandatory by law in 1957 in those areas which a state-appointed committee declares to be rabies areas. This is the thirteenth year that Placer County has been officially declared a rabies area. The reason for this declaration is the prevalence of rabies infection among certain wildlife species, especially skunks.

In the Tahoe area, clinics will be conducted at 4 p.m. on May 9 and 10 at the veterinarian hospital in Tahoe City, and at 2 p.m. on May 16 at the Kings Beach School.

Mrs Lillian Marie King

Death has ended the era of a former beauty queen of the 1900's and a founder of the Kings Beach area.

Mrs. Lillian Marie King, 75, who with her late husband, Joseph King, founded Kings Beach, died Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital in Reno.

A former child actress at the Alhambra Theatre in San Francisco, Mrs. King's girlhood was spent with a variety of stage appearances and as a model for the Emporium Department Store and other leading department stores in the San Francisco Bay Area.

In 1915 she competed with 321 beauty candidates and was selected queen of the Prosperity Ball in the city by the bay. Later Francis X. Bushman, a famous motion picture leading man, picked her "as the most beautiful girl" in a beauty contest. Mrs. King was offered numerous motion picture rolls until her marriage to King in June 1932.

It was after the couple's marriage that they came to the North Shore to manage a summer resort owned then by her parents. Shortly after arriving at the North Shore the newlyweds founded Kings Beach.

After King's death in 1964, Mrs. King operated the family property until Sept. 1969, when she sold out to General American Development Corporation of San Francisco. At this time she moved to Reno where she resided until her death.

The Kings spent their winters between Reno and San Francisco.

Mrs. King is survived by a sister, Mrs. Pearl Trickey of Forest Hills.

Funeral services were held yesterday at the Ross, Burke and Knobel Mortuary in Reno. Burial was at the Masonic Memorial Gardens in Reno.

Don't you sometimes get the feeling that our system of politics is a big joke, a farce, some monstrous hoax designed to flush standup comedians out of the woods and onto the main street for everyone to see?

While it often seems that way, much fortitude is required to run for public office and we can't help but admire those who do, regardless of their motives, although some of them obviously haven't the ghost of a chance of being elected to anything.

Some day we must look into the office of a member of the board of equalization. The way it attracts candidates there surely must be benefits and advantages that are not readily apparent to the naked eye. Maybe he gets the parking place closest to the door and a full hour for lunch and the best looking secretary.

Election year for a newspaper office means tons of printed material and scores of candidates, all competing for space, consideration, endorsement, or at least a sympathetic ear to their various campaign profundities.

We would suppose that our office is looked upon as a friendly place for political aspirants, or at least not a hostile place, and indeed we encourage candidates to come in, leave their material, and freely make their pitch. We'll listen attentively but without promises or committments.

The more candidates, the wider the choice. The wider the choice, the better our chances of electing qualified people. We're in favor of qualified people. Besides, a little opposition, whether it's really effective or not, sure keeps the incumbents on their toes, and we're in favor of that too.

The "100 plus 1 ' celebration is gaining momentum. May 9 will be the 101st anniversary of the completion of the transcontinental railroad and the citizens of Truckee are planning another gigantic celebration in honor of the occasion.

Les Geary, affable chamber of commerce manager and hotel proprietor, started the ball rolling. He was forced to give up leadership of the celebration committee, however, when he and his wife, Pat, secretary of the chamber, were involved in a serious automobile accident. Replacing Les in this important effort are Russ Dickensheet and Art Kennerson.

Persons interested in helping Truckee mark the occasion are urged to get in touch with Dickensheet or Kennerson. They are planning a gala celebration and they need help.

Unclaimed estates net State coffers $386,950

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy today reported that unclaimed funds and abandoned property with a total value of $406,305 were transferred to the custody of his office during the third quarter (Jan. - March) of Fiscal Year 1969-70.

The total included $386,950 in unclaimed funds from 359 estates, and 118 items of abandoned property valued at $19,355, Flournoy said. Estates permanently escheat to the State if unclaimed after five years. Abandoned property is subject to claim indefinitely.

Placer County accounted for $1,837 of the estates received during the third quarter of fiscal '69-70. Estates received from Placer County and valued at more than $1,000 are included in the following: Deloris O. Bradley: $1,837.

The editor's letter box

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

This letter is written as an effort possibly to stimulate the thoughts of the Tahoe City citizens into preserving the original beauty of the area and its historical monuments. As of this date, there are three log cabins and their sites that should be preserved, namely, Bert Watson's Klondyke cabin, Stella Watson's Edgecliff and the Gatekeeper's log residence adjacent to the Tahoe City Dam. It is sad indeed to learn that the log cabin near the dam is to be moved to provide space for more condominium development.

Considering the excessive number of condominiums in the Tahoe City area, it does not seem necessary to change the entire face of Tahoe City by adding more and destroying the natural beauty with an artificial development, leaving only a memory in its place.

Tahoe City needs a local planning group interested in preserving the original natural beauty of the city that overlooks the lake rather than the capital gain in overdeveloping the area. Such a planning group within the city should make known its views to the Auburn Planning Board and implore them not to destroy this area just for the capital gain that such progress makes possible.

It is not possible in the near future to evaluate in terms other than those of profit? Cannot contentment be reached by the ambitious wealthy without completely circumscribing the lake with condominiums and thereby destroying the natural beauty of the lake? To what excessive limits will the planning board in Auburn reach with their approvals? The existing natural beauty surrounding the Truckee River enterance, its dam and the adjacent lakefront should remain untouched and used for the community to view and enjoy. A natural park area. Another area that should be preserved is the Tahoe City Golf Course. In order to do this, it is my feeling that the community should assist in paying the taxes and upkeep on this land. Without this beautiful golf course, Tahoe City would look drab indeed.

It should be the concern of all the community to look ahead and attempt to visualize how the artificial changes that are planned will effect the scenic view so appreciated by all. Picture the highrise and multiple condominiums standing between a viewer and the lake. Consider also the access deprived and reserved for a select few who own the condominiums.

Is it good planning to restrict this community to such a degree?

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Not so long ago there was quite a large group formed to solve the local drug problem in our community and in the schools. A lot of speeches were made and articles written in the local paper telling us how to solve this problem. I have not read or heard anything from this group for a long time. I am wondering whether they have the problem all solved or whether they have found another popular problem to become interested in.

It is evidently apparent that another popular problem has this group of so called intellectuals up in arms. This new problem is ecology. It is the new in thing for all of the pseudo-intellectuals to become up in arms over. Such things as the Vietnam war and drugs and being anti-American is now passe. Ecology is the big thing.

The trouble with this type of group is that they have a lot of questions but no answers. This group does not understand what they think they know all about anything (sic).

This is the type of group that encourages the long hair high school and college radicals and gives Hanoi encouragement to continue the war and are responsible for the deaths of our fighting men in Vietnam.

Why don't they get one problem solved before they tackle another one.

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

So your readers may know the truth regarding qualification for judge of California's justice courts, the following are qualified:

A practicing attorney who has passed the Bar Association Examination, or persons other than attorneys who pass examination by Judicial Council.

There are no degrees of qualification; either one is qualified or he is not. Webster defines qualification as "an endowment or acquirement that fits a person (as for an office)."

Many of our people feel that the office could not possibly be held and administered by anyone but a lawyer. Fortunately this is not the case. Otherwise the Truckee court, the South Lake Tahoe court, and dozens of other justice courts around the state would not have their present judges. Many of them do a fine job. We have had some pretty fine men in the U. S. Supreme Court who did a pretty fair job without becoming attorneys first.

I have passed the qualifying examination. I am sure I, too, could become a good judge.

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Four young California Highway Patrol officers, the eldest 24 and all with children, were killed in cold blood the other day in southern California. A few days ago an armed robber entered a Sacramento market and apparently, without provocation, shot and killed the proprietor.

These were only two of the scores of brutal slayings by malicious, cold blooded murderers reported in recent weeks. A story which had national, if not international interest, reported the killing of five prominent southern California people by a gang of hippies in one night.

While these senseless killings were going on, legislators and sob - sisters were pondering whether or not to outlaw the death penalty in California and the nation. We would be willing to wager these soft-hearted advocates of stopping the death penalty for vicious killers have not been subjected to the merciless slayers, who think no more of taking a human life than they do of killing a rabbit.

The charge is that the death penalty is not a deterrent to crime. We wonder how this became such a popular belief, or if it is a popular belief. We do know that since there has been a moratorium on eliminating the scum of society by death there has been a terrific upsurge in violent crimes. If this moratorium ended and the state set out to fulfill the sentences imposed by juries and fair-mined courts we would bet the number of premeditated murders would show a sharp decline.

Taking a human life is a terrible thing, even under the law, but we sometimes wonder if these people, such as the ones who shot down the four officers, are actually human.

Be that as it may, decent society cannot forever tolerate the ever-growing major crimes which apparently have reached an epidemic point. Such things as simple burglaries, armed robberies, forceful rape, and thievery are becoming looked upon as a way of life and usually demand only light punishment, but so long as deliberate murderers are not faced with the death penalty there is no assurance that these killers will join the ranks of less violent and be assured of short terms in our modern prisons.

Historic guide to the Truckee-Tahoe region

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the thirty first in a series of excerpts taken from "Edwards' Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by C. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican.)

The greatest dimension of this lake (Tahoe) deviates but slightly from a meridan line. Its maximum length is about 54 miles and its greatest width is about 12 miles. In consequence of the irregularity of its outline, it is difficult to estimate its exact area but cannot deviate much from 192 to 195 square miles.

The railroad surveys indicate that the elevation of the surface of its waters above the level of the ocean is about 6,247 feet.

Its drainage basin including in this its own area, is estimated to be about 500 square miles. Probably more than 100 affluents of various capacities - deriving their waters from the amphitheater of snow-clad mountains which rise on all sides from 3,000 to 4,000 feet above the surface - contributing their quota to supply this lake.

The largest of these affluents is the Upper Truckee River, which falls into its southern extremity. The only outlet to the lake is the main Truckee River, which carries the surplus water from a point on its northestern shore out through a magnificent gorge; thence northeast through the arid plains of Nevada into Pyramid Lake. After all that has been written, the artist's skill exhausted, the pets' muse lulled to quiet, still there has not been even an introduction to the beauteous tales and classic legends accompanying the grandeur of the lake and scenery along the Truckee River.

Every mile of the route from Truckee to Tahoe is teeming with objects of grandeur, interest and beauty, and accompanied with legends as beautiful and mythological as those emanating from classic lore.

Look at the huge old cliff which carries its record of ages long prior to the Biblical account of the origin of the earth and mankind. See the old man's face, which stands in bold relief thousands of feet above you. Then upon another view of the same cliff appears the outlines of an old woman's face, which has its legends as varied as they are absurd.

Then comes that wonderous Indian mound, composed of a huge pile of stones. Here again we have legends as numerous as there are Bohemians that see it.

It is said that 300 years ago 750 warrior chiefs were buried there and that every time one of any of the tribes who are represented in this tomb of antiquity passes this spot an additional stone is placed upon it.

No hand can pencil, no pen describe one hundreth part of the beauties of that beautiful sheet of water, forming a little sea, as it were, on the mountain top, guarded on all sides by huge mountain sentries lifting their grim, shaggy heights above its surface.

Not a spot on its borders but lends its individual charm to the beauty of the scene. Grandeur and enchantment possess every single spot, and the panorama of never ending mountain and valley, woodland and meadow, sunshine and cloud is grand, impressive and never tiring.

Around the shore it is an emerald green, deepening into blue beyond. Under a changing ski it grows more sombre, giving a rich wine, purple or violet hue. Lashed by wind it looks a dark bottle green.

Arrangements are under way for the annual Roll Call of the local Knights of Pythias lodge. Robert Waggoner of Yerington, Nevada, has been selected to deliver the address of the evening.

A major portion of the four-page edition was taken up with an official "Notice of Election" for the Presidential Primary Election on May 4, 1920. Signed by County Clerk George Coughlan, it listed two Republican delegations of 26 members each. One was pledged to Hiram Johnson, the other to Herbert Hoover. The Democratic and Prohibition parties each had single delegations, unpledged, on the ballot. Precincts in Truckee were located at the grammar school and the "Truckee Hose House." Sheriff Bill Scott seeking re-election

Placer County Sheriff-Coroner William A. Scott announced this week plans to seek re-election to his post.

Scott, who has served as the Placer County Sheriff-Coroner since 1955, in announcing his intention to seek a fifth term in office said, "Modern Law enforcement is now a profession in which police officers must be constantly aware of the changes and procedures dictated by the courts, particularly in the field of preserving the rights of individuals."

The sheriff stressed the importance of education in police work and said, "At my direction, the department has inaugurated video training programs, in-service training seminars and the assignement of specialized officers to technical classes sponsored by such agencies as the FBI, the Federal Narcotics Agency and the California Institute on Homicide Investigation."

Scott, a graduate of FBI seminars and a member of numerous civic and fraternal organizations, resides with his wife, Jean, and their children in Auburn.

The candidate for re-election said, "As your sheriff, I will ensure that the professional standards of law enforcement will be met so that our county will continue to be an area where citizens may live and rear their families in the atmosphere of peace and dignity that is our American heritage."

Although other sections throughout the state have had their share of crime hikes, the sheriff said he can point with pride to the crime record in Placer County which has not included the kinds of racial strife, campus disorders and major crimes found elsewhere.

He said Placer County narcotics detectives have conducted more than 400 information seminars on drugs for students, service clubs, church congregations and other civic organizations.

Scott said during the 15 years he has served as sheriff, his main goal has been to provide the people of Placer County with the best-equipped and best-educated police force possible. "Every officer in your sheriff's department has under gone the extenisve training required by the California Peace Officers' Standards and Training Comission," he said.

At 47, Scott is still considered one of the youngest sheriffs in California. He is a graduate of local schools and a native of Placer County. The sheriff is a combat veteran of World War II.

Todd explains views

Nevada County Counsel Leo T. Todd was the keynote speaker last week at the Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Donner Lake Lodge.

Todd, who has announced his candidacy for Superior Court Judge, told the chamber the first and foremost responsibility of a Superior Court Judge includes his ability to work with juveniles.

"I do not get concerned with young people when they ask 'Why the establishment?' and when they show concern," Todd said. He noted that his chief concern is the violence and the use of drugs that have swept throughout the nation and involved young people.

However, Todd told his audience that he will not brand young people who "are just experimenting."

The county counsel warned his hosts that he believes in working with teens but that he can get tough if necessary to teach respect for law and order. "Basically, I want the Superior Court judgeship to help kids, not brand them," Todd said. He said today's young people will be tomorrow's responsible citizens.

Todd, who stressed the need for a joint effort between the courts and responsible citizens, to aid in giving youth a fair chance to grow into responsible members of their communities, said the judgeship's second most dealing with "the criminal."

He said the time has come for the courts to crash down on the hardened criminal with stiff sentencing and that the judgeship's concern must be concerned with the protection of society against such criminals.

GUEST SPEAKER AT DONNER - TRUCKEE CHAMBER LUNCHEON - Leo J. Todd, right, Nevada County Council, chats with Herb Crenshaw, left, following his keynote address to Donner-Truckee Chamber of Commerce members last week. The luncheon-meeting, at the Donner Lake Lodge, featured Todd, who is seeking election to the Superior Court judgeship. Todd told chamber members the judgeship's chief concern should include a responsible way to work with young people as they grow into responsible citizens. He promised to, if elected, crack down on hardened criminals.

Admitting that he does not have all the answers to today's social problems, Todd declared he is his own man and not responsible to any special group.

A resident of Northern California for the past 32 years, Todd has practiced law the last 18 years and his experience in courtrooms is as long. He served as the deputy district attorney of Nevada County for seven years and has been county counsel for the last five years.

Todd is married and has four children.

Herb Crenshaw, second vice president of the chamber, presided during the luncehon-meeting. Crenshaw discussed plans for Truckee's future restoration and said a Task Force Committee was making plans to form a corporation to raise needed matching funds to qualify for federal funding on the project.

Jimmie Loynd has been advanced from First Lieutenant to Captain, reports his mom. He is still at Ft. Eustis, which is one of the largest transport centers in the states. Many men returning from Vietnam are brought there for processing. They are also training Vietnamese people there in order that they will be capable of sustaining themselves. I thought this was interesting.

I understand that George Pifer has expressed a very strong interest in becoming the fifth member of the board of directors of the Truckee-Tahoe Airport District, along with four or five others. With Mr. Pifer's knowledge of law, obvious interest in civic matters, and keen interest in aviation, we are sure he would be an excellent choice and a definite balance of the board. A new member should be chosen in the next meeting on the 23rd and I believe his supporters should be present to comment on this before the choice is made. See you there!

Environmental Impact Committee news report

By ROBERTA HUBER

According to Dr. John James, director of the Tahoe Institute of Environmental Research, Jeffery pines at South Tahoe are beginning to show signs of damage due to air pollution.

Trees are a prime source of the oxygen that we must have to live. If this is the case, we had better all take notice and action.

Dr. James was a guest speaker at the last meeting of the Environmental Impact Committee.

A resolution was passed supporting the formation of an air pollution control district in Nevada County with representation on the board of the various climatic zones. It was the concensus of the committee that the district will have to have enough money to be able to properly investigate and then prosecute violators. The public hearing will be April 28 at 10:05 a.m. before the board of supervisors in Nevada City. Now is the time to stop bewailing air pollution and do something. Contact committee members for rides to Nevada City next Tuesday.

The special board meeting of the airport district was postponed to April 23 at 9:30 a.m. at the airport.

After much discussion and two special meetings, the PUD passed the following resolution: After approval by the county of single dwelling, the developer will pay $50 per lot for supplemental sources and improvements to the system. Method and time of payment to be determined by the board. If transmission lines and booster pumps are necessary to reach the subdivision, the developer will provide them at his own expense subjects to the district's approval. Unless otherwise directed, storage tanks and their site will be provided by the developer. The amount of water and storage required for the type of subdivision will be determined by the district engineer in accordance with recommendations of the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau.

In other business, the union successfully negotiated a 7½ per cent raise effective May 1. Raises for some administrative personnel were approved. The board is drafting an ordinance where they will receive $100 per month for two regular meetings and $25 per special meeting instead of the present $50 per meeting.

The planning commission approved the Ski Town and Martis Valley Estates Subdivisions with the condition that they be sewered. Both have long cul-de-sacs which engendered much discussion of the possibility of people being cut off in case of forest fire.

The next meeting of the Environmental Impact Committee will be April 30, 8 p.m. at the residence of Dr. Wilkins. Our guest speaker will be Stanley Mansfield, planning director of Nevada County. These meetings are all open and everyone interested is cordially invited. At the present rate of growth, the committee will soon have to seek a larger meeting place.

Highway 80 repairs set

Single lane closures on Interstate 80, east of Truckee, started Monday and will continue until pavement repairs at several bridges along the highway has been completed, W. L. Warren, California Division of Highways district engineer, said.

He said short, one lane sections on the four-lane freeway will be closed during daylight hours between Truckee and a point six miles east. There will be no traffic interference at night, Warren said.

J. F. Shea Co., of Redding, has been contracted for the bridge repairs on the freeway for $287,000.

Additional construction along the trans-Sierra freeway will get underway later this year and motorists will be kept advised of changing traffic conditions, Warren said.

Set health clinic

Nevada County Health Department will be holding its regular monthly immunization Clinic on April 24, 1970 at the Nevada County Government Center in Truckee. The hours are noon to 1 p.m.

Dr. Ray Wiser, assistant health officer, will give the immunizations which are free of charge and include DPT, polio, small pox, measles, and tuberculin skin tests.

Reagan proclaims Bus safety week

With California school buses transporting more than two million students daily throughout the state, Governor Ronald Reagan has proclaimed "School Bus Safety Week" through Saturday.

Often hailed as "the safest ride on the road," the California Highway Patrol's education division reported this week that no school pupil passengers were killed in school bus accidents last year.

But CHP officials said they had issued 2010 citations in 1969 for violation of the California law requiring drivers to come to a complete stop when they see flashing red lights on school buses.

The large red flashing signals located near the top of the buses are used only when passengers have to cross a roadway. On other stops, the school bus drivers do not use flashing lights, the CHP reported.

The law requies drivers who meet or overtake a stopped school bus which has the flashing red lights in operation to stop and not proceed past the bus until the flashing signal ceases.

Operators of school buses are required to institute preventive maintenance programs, including inspection, maintenance and record keeping, under new regulations which became effective last March 26, the CHP said.

Although adopted by the State Board of Education, the new regulations will be strictly enforced by the CHP. They apply to all school bus operators, including private and public schools and contact carriers, CHP officials said.

While no students were killed in 1969, involving school buses, CHP officers said 333 injury accidents were reported and of the 647 injury victims, 275 were pupil passengers. They said another 31 students pedestrians were hit by buses or other vehicles.

The highway patrol also said school buses were involved in 1,304 property damage accidents, 1200 of which involved other vehicles.

The gaming board also recommended that the North Shore Club at Crystal Bay be reopened for the summer tourist season.

Snow talk

By VI and CARSON WHITE

Squaw Valley's Eric Poulsen repeated his victory of last year and skied off with another Silver Belt when he had the best run of the day Sunday at Sugar Bowl. He made the long giant slalom run in 64.02. His third place time of 67.48 on Saturday brought his combined time to 131.50.

His closest competitor, Spider Sabich made the two runs in 133.22 to place second. Tyler Palmer was third with 133.81.

The first six places were all made by members of the U.S. Ski Team, Ken Corrock, Mike Lafferty and Dan Mooney. Wally Rothgeb of South Tahoe, skiing for the Aspen Wildcats, was 8th with a combined time of 137.11.

Eric's brother Lance had trouble in the second run and did not finish but had 69.68 on the first.

Their sister Sandy had a fine race Sunday during the only women's event and placed third behind the well known U.S. Ski Team Cochran sisters, Marilyn 67.24, Barbara 68.72 and Sandy 69.85. Rosi Fortna was fourth, 71.01, and Kathy Morning fifth, 71.09.

The Vet's had just one run Sunday also and Squaw Valley's Arnie Allen placed third with 74.42, behind winner Jean DeThiersant of Mammoth, 69.99, and Don Brooks, Aspen Wildcats, 72.00.

Far West Ski Association officials for the race were: Bud Jones, Tahoe City; Fraser West, Squaw Valley; Tom Kelly, Tahoe City; Dennis Agee, Reno; Pat Zuckerman, Ernie Palola, Reg and Chris Robinson, Oakland Ski Club. Toni Marth, Sugar Bowl Ski School director, and Hans Standteiner of Alpine Meadows were chief of course.

The cold weather and snow flurries didn't hamper those traditional Kangaroo Jumps after the races. Jim Hunter won the event with a jump of 93 feet and he's sure that it helped to strip down to the waist for least resistance. Burr.

The Green Berets made spectacular jumps from an airplane flying over the Emigrant and Gold Coast ski areas at Squaw Valley Saturday. One olive drab parachutest landed in a tree over in the Alpine Meadows side and had to be helped by Pete Vanni of Tahoe City and T. C. Fire Department volunteers.

Sugar Bowl closed it's doors last weekend for the season and we learned from Bill Cardwell who runs the Magic Carpet that next season, a Heron lift will be built parallel to the gondolas from the highway to the lodge to enable skiers to get to the slopes faster, avoiding the bottle neck at the parking lot. The lift will be managed by Jack deRyk of Truckee.

Enlargement plans for the parking area will also be a terrific help. Hundreds of cars were tagged last season for not being off the pavement.

The Dick Springer Memorial will be held at Mammoth this weekend and many Silver Belt participants plan to be there. The Hans George Memorial will be May 31.

Squaw Valley will operate again next weekend and will hold the 4th of July race during the Mid-Summer Derby.

So, the racing season goes on and on.

The FWSA 38th Annual Convention will be held at the Sacramento Inn May 8, 9 and 10.

Next week our column will be devoted to the various Racing Camps scheduled for juniors during the summer months. A finale to the '69-'70 ski season.

Pet your pooch with visit to new grooming parlor

Once a flying instrument engineer with the Dutch Navy - now a professional expert in good grooming techniques for dogs of all breeds - Charles Koenders found it easy to gain a welcomed passport to the Tahoe North Shore.

The groomer of high fashions for poochs of all breeds, through the cooperation of Dr. W. D. Katchum, Tahoe City and Incline veterinarian, nows offers local dogs deluxe bathing, medicated shampoos, oil baths, and a variety of other services in his special canine beauty care.

Visit his two "Charles" beauty salons at the Pet Hospital on Tahoe Boulevard in Incline or the Dingwall Pet Hospital on Highway 89 in Tahoe City and you'll understand why his four-legged friends, who know him best as "Charles" bark with with affection when it's their turn for an appointment.

After his two-year stint in the Dutch Navy, Koenders enrolled in an extensive dog grooming course in his native Holland. With a license to serve as a full fledged fashion stylist for European dogs, he practiced in Berlin and Paris before bringing his continental expertise to America.

NOW HE'LL BE THE CAT'S MEOW - North Shore dog groomer Charles Kenders adds an expert hand-scissoring finish to Bobby, this silver poodles' beauty treatment. Next a colored ribbon, matching his lavender color will be added. The groomer, new to the North Shore, offers professional dog grooming for all breeds at the Pet Hospital on Tahoe Boulevard at Incline Village and at the Dingwall Pet Hospital on Highway 89 in Tahoe City. Treatment includes medicated baths, rub-downs, manicures, special oil treatment for ears and the finished scissoring.

Before coming to the Tahoe North Shore, "Charles" owned and operated a beauty salon for dogs in the Pacific Palisades, near Hollywood, for the past seven years.

In Hollywood, with its stars and glittering lights, "Charles" soon became a celebrity amongst the dog world. His care and treatment of man's best friend, dogs of all sizes and colors and breeds, not only was the start of a reputation that won him respect from dog owners, Hollywood and its stars came to love the groomer and the royalty he constantly bestowed on their pets.

In his two North Shore salons are autographed photographs and notes of praise to "Charles" from the stars whose dogs he cared for. Some of the groomers' favorite customers in Hollywood were Doris Day and her four poodles, Rhonda Fleming and her two poodles and "a longtime ago Mary Astor and her one dog.

"Charles" said all dogs groomed in his two North Shore salons will receive two champoos with medicated soap and be wrapped in fresh, clean bath towels. The beauty treatment includes oil massages, and medicated oil for ears. Besides a final drying with new modern equipment, each pet will receive a special rub-down, a complete manicure, including finished filing and nail polish. Before time for pets to return home, they fashion style will be completed with brightly colored hairribbons.

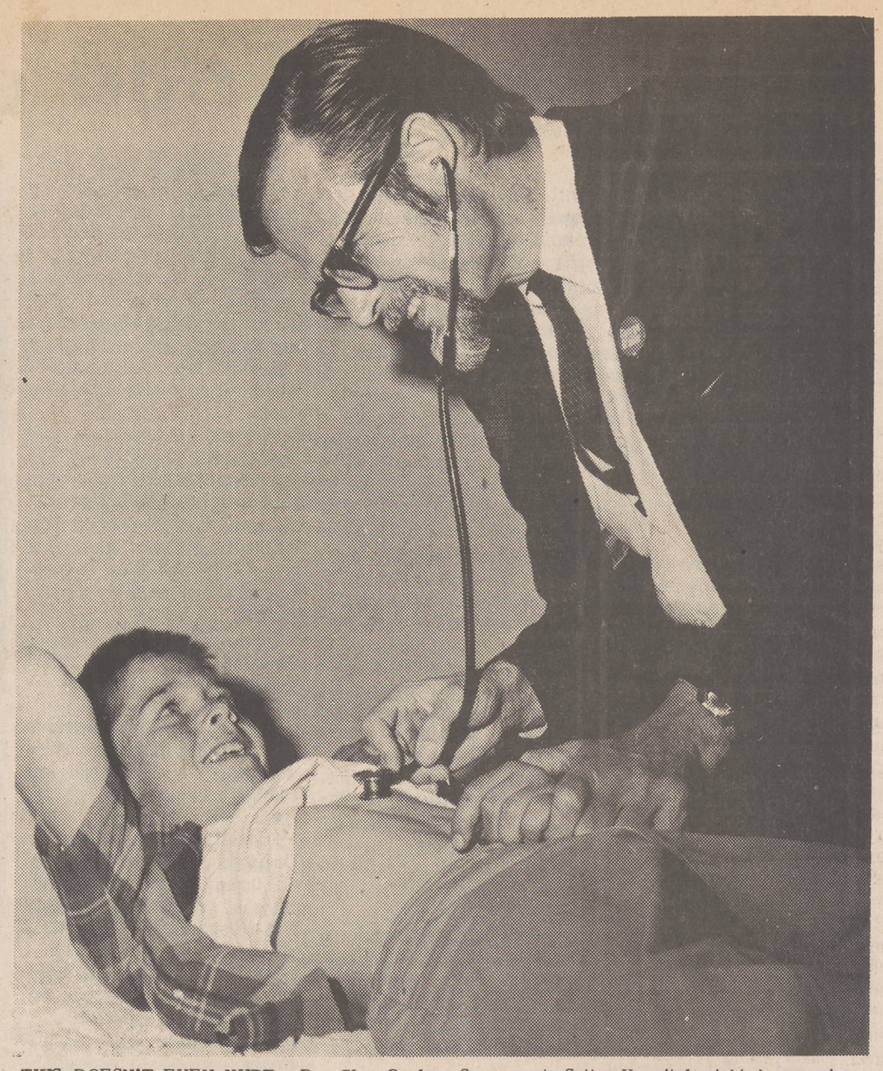
Anxious to meet as many dogs and their owners as possible on the North Shore, the groomer will divide his time between Tahoe City and Incline throughout the week. "However, we will appreciate customers getting in the habit of making appointments as early as possible," he said.

"Charles" told the Sierra Sun that because of much lower temperatures in Europe, European dogs are groomed less often and that American dogs often are clipped shorter than their European counters.

Does the American love the family dog more than the European owner?

"I can't measure the degrees of human love for dogs here in America versus the same in Europe but dogs are certainly treated more as humans in America," "Charles" said.

"Poodles are certainly more spoiled here than in Europe," he laughed. "And Americans buy more clothing for their family pets than owners buy for their dogs in Europe," he added.



THIS DOESN'T EVEN HURT - Dr. Glen Caylor, Sacramento Sutter Hospital, right, has a painless way to test small boys' heart sounds - Kelly Kearns, 10, will tell you. Young Kearns, the son of California Highway Patrolman and Mrs. Thomas Kearns, is one of 16 fourth graders at Truckee Elementary School tested for suspicious heart sounds. The program, which includes all Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District's fourth graders is being provided by the Sacramento-Yolo-Sierra Heart Association.

Heart group aids early detection

An organization with a heart as big as the whole Sierra-Nevada Mountain Range may have been instrumental in detecting early heart defects for several youngsters in the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District this month.

Hopeful that detecting heart problems in children of an early age - the Sacramento - Yolo-Sierra Heart Association with the cooperation of the Placer-Nevada County Medical Society and the Placer County Office of Education sponsored the heart testing program at the district's four elementary schools.

Recent medical research now allows doctors to screen the hearts of children with a fairly new electronic computer device that causes no harm or discomfort to the child, Tahoe-Truckee School Nurse Cilia Brinkley explained.

The instrument is able to screen normal from abnormal heart sounds in most young children, she said.

Some 175 fourth graders were tested throughout the local school district at the start of the month. From these children, Dr. Glen Caylor, Sutter Hospital in Sacramento, discovered suspicious heart sounds in some 51 children.

Dr. Caylor, a pediatric heart specialist, returned to the school district last week to re-evaluate 51 youngsters and their suspicious heart sounds. Children requiring further heart tracing will be given an electrocardiogram at no cost to parents, school officials said.

All suspicious findings will be forwarded to the child's parents and their family physicians, Mrs. Brinkley said.

Truckee plans celebration despite switch in weather

Despite the weather man's sudden switch from spring to winter weather, Truckee townsfolk are going ahead with plans to stage the 100+ 1 celebration of the completion of the transcontinental railroad.

The anniversary celebration slated for May 9 and 10 will include an old fashion dress parade through downtown Truckee and Gateway. The parade will get underway at 10 a.m. and participants will be on hand to greet a special passenger train arriving from the Bay Area at 2 p.m.

Les Geary, who has chaired the train anniversary committee, announced last week that he had resigned from the committee chairmanship. Geary, who is manager of the Donner-Truckee Chamber of Commerce, said he was forced to resign from the group after his wife, Patricia, was seriously injured in a hit-and-run accident two weeks earlier.

Mrs. Geary, who is at the Tahoe Forest Hospital, was listed as "serious" by hospital officials immediately after the near-fatal accident. A hospital nursing staff member told the Sierra Sun Tuesday that Mrs. Geary has shown signs of improvement.

Replacing Geary as co-chairman of the anniversary train committee are Arthur Kennenson and Rus Dickensheet.

Committee members said yesterday that if the weather permits they will still stage a Saturday afternoon baseball game featuring Clampers who will challenge any group interested in a game.

Besides featuring a beer drinking contest, the celebration will include a Saturday dance at 9 p.m. in the Veterans Memorial Building.

Unemployment in county at 20 per cent in March

Unemployment in Nevada County has hit its winter average of 20 per cent, according to figures released recently by the California Department of Employment.

The bad weather months cause the unemployment as timber cutting, logging, mill work and construction are greatly reduced during winter, Paul Paye, the local office manager reported.

The month of March, 1967, was the highest for unemployment in the county during the past three years, with about 24 per cent of the working force unemployed.

The increased percentage of local workers receiving unemployment checks for the past five months began with nine per cent in November, jumping to 14.3 per cent in December, 16.9 per cent for January, 19.1 per cent for February and 20 per cent for March.

One of the highlights of the open house at the Tahoe Lake School Tuesday, May 21, was the display of the fifth grade on the 49th state in miniature. The students, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Farr, featured the wood carvings of the Tlingit Indians of the Panhandle of Alaska to the Eskimo world of the Arctic Circle with its 'ancient' and still necessary form of transportation, the sled and dog.

The diorama presented Mrs. Dave Walling and canine of the North and Harry Johanson's sled which he made from hickory, maple and hand cut rawhide. This sled was used for racing and light runs in the years 1934 and 1938. During his years as constable, Johanson used his sled and dogs for patrol.

The picture display featured dog derbies of 1929, 1930 and 1931. Another project was a relief map of Alaska which was a joint project of all the fifth grade boys.

The two guitarists, both students, provided music. Sandy is Sandy S. Leininger. In picture below Debbie Wurst helps Bob Sargentini put his cufflinks on. League members and five male students and five mothers modeled the fashions coordinated by Miss Barker and Mrs. Ruth Burris of Crystal Bay Magnin's. League Advisor Mrs. Corley said 180 persons attended the luncheon and show. She said the event brought in $300 for the group's first scholarship which will be announced later. -Sun Photos.

Excavators enter plea

TAHOE CITY – Amid a stir among concerned persons who thought pollution of Lake Tahoe might be involved, the Pete Perata Excavation Co. of Tahoe City has pled innocent to a charge of failing to notify before altering the existing shoreline.

The plea was entered in Tahoe City Judicial District Court following a citation issued by the California Department of Fish and Game which alleged that the company failed to notify the agency prior to making the alterations.

Don Beck, project and sale manager of Rocky Ridge, said that although Perata was working on a beach site within the $10 million townhouse development near Tahoe City, no fish and game permit had been required because there was no alteration of the lake's shoreline.

Perata maintains that he was operating a front-end loader on the shore in order to place rock between four to six feet of the water line. He asserts that the machine's bucket never rouched the water.

Reflections on a vacation: Someone wrote that it is so difficult for the present day executive to unwind that he actually feels guilty not doing anything at a time set aside for a so-called vacation.

A vacation, that's when you race around in any mode of vehicle you can beg, borrow, or as a last resort, rent. At the same time you busily try to follow a road map published by the visitors bureau and you take in all the scenic points of interest, the historical places of value and gift shop traps.

You look at old piles of stone, rather fragily still held together and labeled almost anything. You look at woven bark, bamboo, leaves and wood, and dreamily imagine dark skinned natives playing all kinds of odd shaped instruments, pounding something edible in a communal with access to the most beautiful mountains, body of water and sky on earth.

You could be anywhere, but you have to go, go, go because that's what everyone will ask upon your return. Did you go to the biggest hole, the deepest gorge, the swinginst club, the thickest thicket? Did you do what everyone expects you to do? If not, you've missed the most exciting part of your whole trip and you have pangs of conscience about being 2,000 miles from home and not seeing everything written up in the travel brochures.

The first week is concentrated on reading all the labels on the sun lotions that are on the market. Fifty seven varieties and do they all contain that ingredient that gives you a rash?

Finally you remember back in the dim distant past when the dark skinned natives used a coca butter without added additives and you decide to fry in oil and take the chance. This is no easy decision but is reached after one tube is labeled "tan the easy way - no sun." However, you find that it deeply yellows your hands, eyebrows, and all hair it comes in contact with! Enough research is done to publish a "how to" booklet on the simple subject of sunning on vacation.

You meet other off-season tourists who are also flabby and palefaced after the long winter months and you are convinced that it is healthy to play all those games you haven't touched for ten years. With camera in one hand and a racquet in the other, you think you're going to knock two inches off your waistline but instead you pull a muscle which is unaccustom to such antics.

Yeah, you say, you've come a long way and those retirement communes look better every year! And in the meantime, your mail is stacking up back home. Magazines, periodicals, publications you can't possibly get through in a year - not to mention the past due bills marked with interest owing.

And you've had to ruin your vacation because property taxes were due.

The whole tourist gamit is big business. Greatly reduced airline tavel rates have brought the faraway places close together and Tahoe has to compete with all this.

Sodden thought: You realize that if the lake were rimmed with garbage cans there still would be the dirty guy who would throw his garbage anywhere to dispoil the scene.

You return to your "no place like home" and realize you're better equipped with more understanding for the tourists who frequent our lovely scenic shores.

Pyramid Lake rises to 1961 level

CARSON CITY – Resurging Pyramid Lake this month climbed back to its elevation in February of 1961 as a result of continuing wet Sierra winters and strict operating criteria for the Truckee River.

Don Clendenon of the U.S. Geological Survey office reported the level of the big desert lake April 8 was measured at 3,795 feet above sea level, up .8 of a foot from the Feb. 24 measurement of 3,794.2 feet.

All of the flow of the river made its way into the Truckee's natural terminus at Pyramid until March 18 when about 185 cubic feet of water per second (cfs) was diverted at Derby Dam about 20 miles east of Reno to meet irrigation needs of bench lands in the Fernley area.

The diversion was increased to about 250 cfs April 1, leaving about 325 cfs bypassing Derby on its way to Pyramid. All diversions count against the Truckee – Carson Irrigation District's maximum entitlement from both the Truckee and Carson Rivers of 406,000 acre feet of water a year.

Evaporation robs the big desert lake surrounded by a Paiute Indian reservation of four feet off the surface every year. This amounts to enough water to cover 688 square miles one foot deep.

Interior Department rules and regulations for the Truckee adopted several years ago prevent diversion from the Truckee if snow surveys indicate the Carson River will fill Lahontan Reservoir to its 290,000 acre foot capacity.

However, the bench lands must be irrigated from the Truckee Canal because there is no way to get water from the Carson to them.

Because of a good snowpack in the Sierra drained by the Carson, it appears the irrigation district will not be able to call on the Truckee to supply water to Lahontan until mid-summer.

Council sparks clean-up campaign

Sparked by the efforts of the Community Council, composed of representatives from civic organizations of the North Lake Tahoe area, a spring clean-up and beautification program is being coordinated by the joint efforts of Kings Beach, Tahoe City and Meeks Bay fire departments.

The program is scheduled to be held on May 16 and 17. According to the arrangements committee "everyone's help is needed to make this first annual North Tahoe Spring Clean-up and Beautification a successful event." Any interested individual, family or group who wish to volunteer their services to help the memberships of the local organizations to beautify the area on May 16 and 17, or both days, are urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce, 583-3461 or 583-3406 for information.

Donated use of trucks, pick-ups and trailers, with or without operators, are needed to haul the litter to the dump.

The area to be covered will be the north and west shores of the lake, from Stateline in Crystal Bay to Emerald Bay and from the River Road in Tahoe City to Alpine Meadows Road.

The general purposes of the plan are twofold - one to clean up debris and litter alongside streets and highways and make a notation of the location and abandoned and inoperative vehicles for disposal at a later date, and beautification.

Horsemen pick new officers

During a pot-luck-dinner meeting members of the Truckee - Donner Horsemen elected a new board of directors.

The newly elected directors include Don Huber, Jack Marquette, George Morey, Dick VanLandingham, Dave Walling, Ray Wiser and George Wurst.

The Horsemen's regular meeting slated yesterday was changed to tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Truckee Firehouse. The meeting time was switched because of Public Schools Week being celebrated by local schools this week.

Lake study

WASHINGTON – A study on the feasibility of establishing a national lakeshore along Lake Tahoe has been given approval by the Interior Department.

The bill calling for the study was sponsored by Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev) and asks that part of the preseve be present publicly owned segments on the lake's Nevada side.

Assistant Interior Secretary Harrison Loesch pointed out that two-thirds of the shoreline is in California and therefore the study should include the California segments of the lake.

Big park problem is theft of artifacts

SACRAMENTO - Vandalism and removal of irreplaceable artifacts from archeological sites in and out of the state park system continue to be major problems in California, according to William Penn Mott Jr., director of the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

"We have some cases in units of the state park system where prehistoric Indian sites have been almost completely destroyed by bottle collectors, souvenir hunters, and vandals," Mott said.

"Evidently, many people aren't aware of the laws protecting these historic sites, and if they are aware of them, they don't understand the serious consequences of their actions."

Mott explained that more than 99 per cent of man's past is prehistoric and the only way it can be interpreted is through scientific archeological investigations. The story that these areas can tell the archeologist depends on the area being completely undisturbed. Digging up the area, removing items, or even disturbing them and moving them around in the area destroys part of the story, Mott said.

Archeology is a branch of the science of anthropology concerned with the reconstruction of past human life and culture.

For those interested in archeology, Mott recommended contacting the nearest college, university or museum. There is a wealth of material available from libraries, he said, and there are many museums and parks, such as the State Indian Museum in Sacramento, where Indian artifacts and culture can be observed.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The water bonds are issued pursuant to Section 53541 of the Government Code of the State of California and are issued for the same purpose as that for which $57,000 principal amount of unissued bonds were authorized by a vote of more than two-thirds of the voters of the District voting at a special election for the purpose of authorizing bonds for the acquisition, construction and completion of a water system for the District.

The sewer bonds were authorized by a vote of more than two-thirds of the voters of the District voting at a special election for the purpose of authorizing the bonds for the acquisition construction and completion of a sewer system for the District.

Upon the delivery of the bonds, the District will have incurred debt to the maximum extent permitted by the Public Utility District Act. The proceeds of the bonds are to be used to finance preliminary engineering studies which may lead to the execution of construction contracts for projects for water and sewer facilities for the District, the total estimated costs of which (including said engineering studies) is now $3,020,000. The only source of payment of the remainder of said total cost is from a grant and loan agreement between the District and the United States of America, through the Economic Development Administration of the Department of Commerce, pursuant to which EDA may grant to the District $2,096,600 and may lend to the District pursuant to the authorization of Section 16578 of the Public Utility District Code the sum of $753,400. However, the receipt of said grant and said loan from the United States of America is contingent upon a determination being made, as a result of the preliminary studies being financed from the proceeds of the bonds, that the projects are feasible and can be completed with the proceeds of the bonds, said loan and said grant. Should it be determined as a result of said preliminary studies that said projects cannot be completed, the United States of America will be under no obligation to grant or lend any funds whatsoever to the District. In that event, and if the assessed valuation of the District does not increase, the tax rate necessary to repay the water bonds is estimated to be $1.01 per annum and the tax rate necessary to repay the sewer bonds is estimated to be $2.03 per annum, both in addition to all other taxes levied against the taxable property in the District.

The District has been advised by its general counsel and its bond counsel that it is unwise to proceed with the sale of the bonds in advance of successful preliminary studies indicating that the projects are feasible, and in advance of the award of a construction contract for each of said projects. However, EDA has advised the District that it will not advance grant or loan funds for engineering studies if the District has any other source of funds to pay for such studies. The District has no such source except the proceeds of sale of the bonds and EDA has requested that the District offer the bonds for sale.

SECURITY: The bonds are general obligations of Donner Summit Public Utility District and (unless funds are otherwise provided from revenues or from moneys in the general fund of the District) the Board of Directors of the District has power and is obligated to levy annual ad valorem taxes for the payment of the bonds and the interest thereon upon all property in the District subject to taxation by the District, without limitation or rate or amount.

TAX EXEMPT STATUS: In the event that prior to the delivery of the bonds (I) the income received by any private holder from bonds of the same type and character shall be declared to be taxable (either at the time of such declaration or at any future date) under any federal income tax laws, either by the terms of such laws or by ruling of a federal income tax authority or official which is followed by the Internal Revenue Service, or by decision of any federal court, or (II) any federal income tax law is adopted which will have a substantial adverse tax effect on holders of the bonds as such, the successful bidder for each issue may, at his option, prior to the tender of such issue by the District, be relieved of his obligation under the contract to purchase such issue and in such case the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of Messrs. Orrick, Herrington, Rowley & Sutcliffe of San Francisco, California, approving the validity of the appropriate issue of bonds will be furnished to each successful bidder without charge. A copy of the appropriate legal opinion, certified by the officer in whose office the original is filed, will be printed on each bond without charge to the successful bidder.

TERMS OF SALE

Highest Bid: The water bonds and the sewer bonds will be awarded separately to the highest bidder for each issue, considering the interest rate or rates specified and the premium offered, if any. The highest bid for each issue will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid (if any) from the total amount of interest which the District would be required to pay from the date of said bonds to their respective maturity dates at the coupon rate or rates specified in the bid, and the award will be made on the basis of the lowest net interest cost to the District on each issue. Each purchaser must pay accrued interest from the date of the issue of bonds purchased to the date of delivery. Net interest and accrued interest will be computed on a 360-day year basis.

Right of Rejection: The Board of Directors reserves the right, in its discretion, to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid.

Prompt Award: The Board of Directors will meet and reveiw bids received at 7:30 P.M. on May 11, 1970, and will take action awarding the water bonds, the sewer bonds or both, or rejecting all bids not later than 24 hours after the expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals, unless such time of award is waived by the successful bidder.

Prompt Delivery: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the San Francisco Main Office of Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association, in San Francisco, California, on June 1, 1970, or as soon thereafter as the bonds can be prepared.

Right of Cancellation: The successful bidder for each issue shall have the right, at his option, to cancel the contract of purchase if the District shall fail to execute the bonds and tender the same for delivery within sixty (60) days from the date of sale thereof, and in such event the successful bidder shall be entitled to the return of the deposit accompanying his bid.

Form of Bid: Each bidder may bid for either or both of the issues of bonds hereby offered for sale. Each bid must be for not less than the par value of all of the issue of bonds bid for and accrued interest thereon to date of delivery. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Clerk of the Donner Summit Public Utility District entitled "Proposal for (insert appropriate designation of one or both issues of bonds) of Donner Summit Public Utility District," and either delivered to said Clerk by 11:00 o'clock A.M. on May 11, 1970, at Beacon Hill Lodge, Soda Springs, California 95728, or delivered to Joseph J. Hughes, Orrick, Herrington, Rowley & Sutcliffe, 405 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, California 94104, by 11:00 A.M., on said date, or mailed to either of said addresses in time to be received by 10 A.M. on said date.

Bid Check: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $1,000 for each issue of bonds bid for drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the District to secure the District from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. In addition, bidders are requested (but not required) to supply an estimate of the total net interest cost to the District on the basis of their respective bids, which shall be considered as informative only and not binding on either the bidder or the District. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned by the District by mail. No interest will be paid upon the deposits made by the successful bidders.

Official Statement: Information relative to the financial condition of the District and relative to the District will be furnished to any bidder upon request.

There is no controversy or litigation pending concerning the validity of the bonds, the corporate existence of the District, or the title of the officers thereof to their respective offices, and the District will furnish to each successful bidder a no-litigation certificate certifying to the foregoing as of and at the time of the delivery of the bonds.

NEWS FROM NORTH TAHOE PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

Directors have approved a $6,500 recreation program for this summer. This is about double what the recreation budget was last year. The program will begin June 22 and continue as long as there is interest to justify it. Its purpose is to provide supervision and facilities for recreation for residents of the North Tahoe PUD and to provide experiences not available during the regular school year. The Kings Beach Elementary School multi-purpose room, four classrooms, library, tennis courts and playgrounds will be used plus equipment owned by the school.

The basic program will be offered Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in arts and crafts led by Norma Schaumann, sewing led by Rae Payne, beginning guitar and piano taught by Rita Leon, little theater directed by Jean Joynt, storytelling by Marion Adams, knitting by Darlene Bitler, horseback riding by Lori Villimott and sailing led by Tom McMaster. Those taking sewing must furnish their own materials, but sewing machines will be furnished. In music, pianos will be furnished but participants must provide their own guitars. The little theater activity will produce one three-act play to be publicly presented. The storytelling is for young children and is designed to create interest in books and the library. Horses will be provided for those who want to learn how to ride, handle and care for horses. The sailing program might be combined with the U.S. Coast Guard Sea Scout activity or individually. Boats will be provided.

Most boys will be participating in Little League baseball between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. so this period Monday-Thursday will be devoted to individual and group activities for girls. This period could become co-educational and could provide some continuation of other activities.

The adult recreation program will be conducted 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday in classes of arts and crafts, sewing, choir, exercise groups for men and women, weight lifting and group and individual games.

Fridays will be free days with activities offered that must be signed up for during the week. Campouts, hiking, horseback riding, golf, skating at Squaw Valley, picnics, fishing, etc. will be arranged and supervised by the staff. Participants may be asked to share in costs.

The recreation budget earmarks $4,500 for salaries, $1,200 for supplies and new equipment, $200 to replace and repair equipment, and $500 of insurance, new programs and miscellaneous expenses.

Assessments for sewer districts 5A and 5B were confirmed April 14 by the Placer County Board of Supervisors. According to John Pitalo of Murry & McCormick engineers, construction costs for the 87,000 feet of pipe between Dollar Point and Watson Creek are estimated at $2.2 million. During public hearings, Elias Basher offered a 4-acre parcel for use as a public park and a neighbor, Clayton Weller, donated another acre. They own property at Watson Creek. The five acres will become a park. A construction contract will be awarded April 28. Low bidder among eight firms is Valley Engineers of Fresno.

Alpine sale pending

The proposed purchase of a controlling interest in Alpine Meadows ski area by Ash Interstate Corporation has been delayed.

Allan Ewan, president of Alpine Meadows, told the Sun that Alpine's board of directors considered the $1.2 million proposal at their last meeting and have delayed action on the offer.

"We are not certain at this time when the proposal will come up for a final decision by the board of directors.

"The (Alpine) board is hopeful that the proposal may be brought before them again before May 1," Ewan noted.

Alpine Meadows, one of the most heavily patronized ski areas in the West, is located just a few miles from Squaw Valley, site of the 1960 Winter Olympics. The 1969-70 ski season has shown a substantial 30 per cent increase in skier days over last year's attendance at Alpine, directors noted.

Harrison O. Ash of San Francisco, chairman and president of Ash Interstate Corporation, is an international financier and developer. His corporate interests include extensive mining explorations in northwest Canada, and the Del-Mar Development Company which is creating a new 2,600 acre city near Laredo, Texas.

Ash Interstate Corporation anticipates continued expansion of Alpine Meadows and of its interests in adjacent Alpine Peaks as a major all-year recreational complex.

William S. Johnstone, of Belvedere represents Ash Interstate in the acquisition matter.

Pick up a good second car from Volkswagen.

Somebody traded in a Rolls-Royce for a Volkswagen?
Yes, somebody traded in a Rolls-Royce for a Volkswagen.
It happened in Texas, of course.
But even in average states some pretty fancy cars show up on a VW dealer's used car lot.
And some not so fancy cars. And some quite practical cars. Like Volkswagens.
But no car, Rolls or VW, gets that guarantee on the windshield automatically.
First it goes through a rigorous 16-point inspection.
If anything needs fixing, it gets fixed.
Only then does the dealer guarantee the free repair or replacement of every major working part* for thirty days or a thousand miles. Whichever comes first.
So when a Volkswagen dealer says that a used car is as good on the inside as it looks on the outside, you don't have to trust him.
He'll put it all down in writing for you.
This used car is guaranteed 100%.

Development:

'Just what they want'

Plans for condominium addition to the Tahoe Racquet Club stressing conservation and enhancement of environment were approved last week by the Washoe County Regional Planning Commission.

Work on the $5 million program of 101 new townhouse condominiums and landscaping is expeced to begin between May 1 and 15.

Plans for the units, to be erected on a 9-acre parcel behind the present facilities, were presented the planning commission by planning consultant Raymod M. Smith of Reno and Lake Tahoe.

Smith said over-all density will be held to 15 units per acre as required by the new Nevada master plan for Lake Tahoe leaving 55 per cent of the area in open or recreational space.

Development plans call for landscaping of a stream which cuts through the property and three new trees to be planted for any tree removed. Maples, elders and flowering fruit trees will be included along with many shrubs to hold the soil.

There will be 168 parking spaces, interlaced with greenways.

The three bedrooms, two bath units have been designed by architect Faradg Gilan-Farr of Tahoe City. Each unit is designed with two suites and separate entrances so owners can rent a suite and still retain one for themselves if such is desired.

"We are giving environmentalists just what they want with this development," said a spokesman for A & R Corp.

"This property is zoned commercial and we could go up to about to 150 foot height. Instead of that, there is nothing over 35 feet high.

"This is an addition to preservation of the trees, landscaping that prevents erosion and enhancement of the stream as well as the entire nine acres."

Lynn Armstrong, also a spokesman for the developer, said the project is aimed at strengthening the club's present membership. Present facilities include a 29-room hotel, cottages, 10 tennis courts, swimming pool, bar and restaurant.

The hotel, bar and restaurant are open to the public. Courts, pool and private club rooms are for members only.

Miss Armstrong said the club's 350 members will have first choice of the new townhouses which will be priced at around $49,500. A club membership goes with the purchase of a unit. She said if the owner wishes, club management will operate the units when not in use.

"The first 33 units will be completed in August," Miss Armstrong said.

"They will be offered to members first, on a first come, first served basis," she concluded noting that several members have already expressed an interest in acquiring a unit.

The property includes the gambling casino and real estate and a small motel in California.

Earth Day: students clean up Village

A weekend series of useful environmental projects is occupying the spare time of students at the Incline Junior - Senior High School as they join schools and colleges throughout the nation in celebrating "Earth Day" today, Wednesday.

An "Anti-pollution Hat" and a speech Thursday on "Lake Tahoe 1970" by Raymond M. Smith, area planner are two of the highlights. He will speak before both elementary and high school students at 2 p.m. at the high school.

The "hat" will be passed Wednesday and students driving cars and motorcycles will drop their keys in the hat to be locked up in the school safe for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Instead of driving, students will walk to and from school for the three days "hopefully to enjoy air not polluted by automobiles and see to appreciate their environment as it is today," said Jack Stevens, teacher.

Stevens and Jim Conkey are faculty members coordinating the youth activities.

On Wednesday, members of the senior class will get rid of all the old cars on the high school campus. Cars, used by the auto mechanics class, have been piling up and are no longer useful.

Members of the eighth grade class are sponsoring a poster contest for both elementary and high school students. Posters best depicting environmental problems of air and water pollution, population and related subjects will be eligible for $20 and $15 first prizes and a $5 second prize to be awarded today.

Another eighth grade project underway is the weeklong "Circle of Cleanliness." Students started at 8 a.m. Monday from the high school picking up trash and litter from roadways, circling ever further out from the school. They will complete the project as far as possible by Friday at 3 p.m.

DO'S AND DON'TS OF FINGERPRINTING - Intricacies of taking fingerprints were taught and demonstrated to all deputies at Incline Substation last week when Lt. R. W. Kellerer, right, superintendent of the Identification Bureau of Washoe County Sheriff's Office held a fingerprint class at the substation. Shown with Kellerer are, from left; deputies James Coffey, Richard Stein, Merlin Millsap and James Trackwell. Lt. Kellerer demonstrated how to get impressions and various techniques in handling persons reluctant to have their prints taken. He also explained how to get fingerprints from deformed and crippled hands. Others participating were Lt. Jesse Ramsey Sgt. Roger Howard, and deputies Robert Blake, Dee Kruse, Bill Worthington and Roy Carlisle

CUB CARNIVAL - In spite of cold weather Saturday members of Cub Scout Den 37 report complete success on a carnival held at Lakeview Shopping center. In picture above, people crowd around booths being set up. At right, Cub David Hurley only let his sister, Cara, try the ring toss after she'd paid her dime. There was also knock the teeth out of the clown, a wheel of fortune, knock the bottle down as well as a back sale and white elephant sale. Den Mother Karen Brown reports $105 was made toward the youngsters' project of purchasing camping equipment.

Over The Back Fence

By FLORENCE BURGE

Al and Jean Kuckhoff and children Holly, Chris, Craig and Heidi reported in last week after a three and a half weeks ski holiday in Europe with several other Incliners.

Also in the party were Ann Follansbee, president, Incline Ski Club; Bert and Barbara Jensen, Carol Rogers and son, Christian; Bill and Su Willoughby and Dusty Trembly.

The group skied at Grindelwald and Pontresina Switzerland; St. Anton, Aurtia,; and other famous ski resorts.

From Pontresina the Kuckhoffs left the party, rented a Volkswagen and toured several countries. Highlights were Milan, Italy, Lindau, Germany and St. Moritz and Zurich in Switzerland.

"We had a great time," says Al. "The Alps are wonderful.

"When we could see, the skiing was great - but it snowed so darn much, we seldom could!"

Al said they met Ed and Peg Jensen during a stopover at Grindelwald. He said also there were some places they couldn't visit because of avalanches.

It was Bert Jensen who organized this tour for Incline ski enthusiasts. Now it's agreed for him to try to organize a charter flight next year for those interested.

Al was disappointed to find he came home to more winter weather - he'd heard about our early "summery" weather.

"I thought I was coming back to spring!"

Hats off and lots of luck to Jon Hess and John Roodhouse who came out last week with their "Lake Tahoe North" tourist and business guide.

It'a a beautiful job fellas, supplies badly needed compiled information and here's hoping our communities will support it.

Jon, who is publisher, said a similar book for the South Shore is on the presses now and will be out starting the middle of May.

Both publications are being distributed lakewide to 13,000 boxholders, as well as to some 2,000 travel agencies in the United States, Canada, Europe, Japan, the Middle East and Africa.

Jon noted that first printing on each edition is 25,000 copies and that later on, they will be available over retail counters when requested.

Come August the ambitious duo (John Roodhouse is associate editor) expect to come out with a small monthly tourist information magazine listing hotels, motels, a calendar of events, eating, recreation and entertainment in the area.

Both Jon and John operate under the name of Jonathan Hess and Associates. Their other business, where John is the leader, includes feasability studies and real estate appraising in which John has been active for many years.

Jon hails from Thousand Oaks, Calif. where he worked and finally took over his father's publishing firm, Arthur Hess and Associates.

He is a graduate of Moorpark College in business administration and marketing. Following settlement of his father's estate last year, Jon came to Incline in August and "I never want to leave."

John has been here two years. He's been active in real estate appraisals and a leader in the children's ski racing at Ski Incline. He is a graduate of California Polytechnic College.

Both are married - Jon to Judy and their daughter, Jennifer, is 6 months old. John's wife is Terry. Their two daughters, Christine, 7, and Valerie, 10, both attend Incline Elementary School.

GRAND PRIZE WINNER - Franki Porter 9, center, displays her grand prize winning poster in the recent Washoe County Library "Reading Is For Everybody" contest. Contest was sponsored by Reno, Sparks and Incline libraries and Franki won over entrants from all areas in grades one through nine. She is shown with her mother, Ella Mae Porter, rear, and Jack Jensen, 8, who took first place among the first and second grade entrants and Heidi Uhlhorn who took an honorable mention in the third and fourth grade competition. Jack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jensen and Heidi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Uhlhorn. All are Incline residents and attend Incline Elementary School. Franki's poster was used to make bookmarks, one of which she is holding. The bookmarks are being distributed throughout all three libraries. She also was awarded a book about ants, "The Life of a Queen." Other Incline youngsters receiving honorable mentions were Jacke Faber, David Hurley, Jim Mandeville, Valerie Parsons and Beckie Paxton. All winning posters were on display last week at the Incline Branch library. This week the library is featuring a display of books on conservation to tie in with "Earth Day" which is being observed today throughout the nation by schools and colleges.

Hitchhikers warned by sheriff's office

Lt. Jesse Ramsey, officer in charge of the Incline Substation, Washoe County Sheriff's Office, has announced deputies will make every effort this summer to enforce the Nevada Statutes on trespassing particularly on the George Whittell lands in the Washoe County portion of Lake Tahoe.

The sheriff's department has been granted authority by the administrators of the estate to enforce the regulations whether posted signs have been torn down or not.

Lt. Ramsey said persons apprehended on the property will be subject to a $50 fine. He said trespassing on the huge estate has been a problem of considerable dimensions for several years, particularly in the summer.

The lieutenant also reminds hitchhikers they are subject to a $5 fine if they step on to the roadway to stop a car or signal for a car to stop. If the hitchhiker cannot pay the fine, he can be booked for vagrancy.

Lt. Ramsey said motorists should also be cautioned, as hitchhikers increase, that they give rides at their own risk and many have tragic results.

Another warning issued by the substation concerns the posted "No Parking At Any Time" signs on Highway 28 at Hidden Beach. The lieutenant said cars found within the posted area will be towed away immediately at the owners expense. Towing fee is $25 which must be paid before cars are released. Violators may also be subject to an additional fine, he said.

Golf Course to open

John Szlavik, general manager of the Incline Village recreational facilities, has announced that the famous Incline Village Golf Course will begin its seventh season on April 25, weather permitting.

This early opening of the golf season is due to the relatively short winter which has enabled Szlavik to begin an early grooming of the beautifully landscaped golf course.

Szlavik also announced that Incline's golf professional, George Bayer, will be returning for his fifth season with the Incline Village Golf Course. Bayer is followed by his well known and capable crew to manage all the golf facilities which include the golf course and pro-shop.

Although the Incline Village Golf Course is open to public, it has become known as the golf country club. Not only is the golf course rated among the top ten in the nation, but the course itself is one of the most challenging.

Serving as the 'club house' the Chataux provides not only excellent gourmet dinners, music and dancing, but houses the pro shop, golf equipment, the 110 new golf carts, spacious locker rooms, and on May 1 will start serving lunches.

Delay application for code variance

RENO - Washoe County Board of Adjustment has delayed an application by Harold O. Herz for a building code variance to build on a lot in Rocky Point subdivision at Lake Tahoe.

Lawrence A. Dickinson, board member, commented, "We should not grant any of these requests until the new bi-state agency completes its standards and rules."

Speeding car hits tow truck

Spectators, deputies and occupants of a speeding car escaped injury last week in a spectacular crash on Mt. Rose Highway 27.

Deputies of the Incline Substation, Washoe County Sheriff's Office report traffic was being controlled for a tow truck removing a car over the embankment when another car, driven by Robert Smith of El Cajon failed to heed controls, lost control of his car, and plowed into the tow truck.

Witnesses say spectators, deputies and workers "dived for cover in every direction." Smith was cited for wreckless driving and driving without chains or snow tires when chain requirements were posted.

In another accident, Daniel K. Moore of Reno was cited for driving without a valid driver's license and driving without chains or snow tires where chain controls were posted. Moore lost control of his car and went over the embankment on Mt. Rose Highway 27.

Carl Elser of Carson City was cited by deputies for crossing double yellow lines on Highway 28 between stateline and Gonawabie Road.

Loss of a tape deck was reported by Helmut Rehberger of Incline who told deputies it was stolen from his car which was parked and locked in his driveway. Investigating deputies report they found no signs of forced entry and surmise a master key was used.

Richard Bersano of Los Gatos reported his Incline Home at 924 Lakeshore had been entered sometime earlier this month while he was away.

Board recommends Gaming License

Lake Echoes

Moscow dateline: Martha and Harry Bernard, former Crystal Bay residents, tell us of their very special tour. Moscow Intourist had a special tour of nine days, flying up from Pakistan on International Airlines - The Bolshoi Baitel "The Nutcracker Suite" - "Swan Lake" and the circus. Fantastic, they say. Lengingrad, back to Karacrui and hot weather after the cold of Moscow.

The Bernards found Moscoe beautiful, clean, no bill boards, little noise, and even the subways clean and beautiful. Expensive - (but what isn't these days?) and had a marvelous time.

Another traveler is Lee Cunningham. A spur of the moment trip takes Lee to San Francisco for New York for a five days visit with her mother and friends. Then off to London, Brussels and to Zurich where she will visit with long time friends. Home trip will be over the Pole to San Francisco and thence home to Tahoe.

Given the choice of a birthday party at home or a trip to San Francisco, sophisticated Kristen Clark chose San Francisco. However, she did have a party at school in celebration of her sixth birthday March 25.

Parents, Sharon and Hewitt Clark of Incline, were delighted at her choice as they too enjoyed a day at the beach in Carmel. Then to San Francisco for trips to the zoo, wax museum, Golden Gate Park's aquarium and other interesting must-sees, to "Fantasia" and finally dinner at her favorite spot - Lupo's.

Ruth and Jimmie Hume are back to their Incline home after a trip to Palm Springs where Ruth played in a golf tournament. Then they enplaned to Alamos, Mexico, and returned to Palm Springs with Jimmie's mother, Florence Murphy, and back to Tahoe. Florence will be at the Lake in a few weeks and Jimmie is getting ready for the North Shore Club opening on the 15th.

Tahoe is having winter in April - so Beth and Dave Chamberlin of Incline took a Hawaiian vacation including the outer islands. In Honolulu they visited their son and family, Mark and Rama Chamberlin and their four months old son, Gordon, their first child.

From Honolulu they went to Seattle for a visit with Dave's brother, John Chamberlin, and family.

Fred Schultz of Incline is now associated with the Americana Corporation as sales agent and assistant vice president for the Tahoe region. Selling in Alburquerque, New Mexico, makes for a good reason for traveling!

Returning to Tahoe Vista and opening his resort for summer, is Tom James. Tom visited the past several weeks in Palm Springs and San Diego.

Well qualified sister-assistant, Ruth James Cookingham, has returned from a winter in Sacramento, Carmel and Palm Springs.

Isabelle and Al de Luque of Tahoe Vista, too, are getting ready for summer. Daughter, Iris, and children have returned to Los Angeles; Jack is back to school in New York; Abbie and Frank Jeans and children are in a new home in Pittsburg, Pa. Frank is enjoying his position as president of a firm there.

Joel who attended the Tahoe Truckee school is attending college in Los Angeles.

Joel was on the "Dating Game" show last Thursday - a well poised and informed young man of whom we are very proud.

Worth Matron Inez Jordan and Worth Patron Bud Mandeville of the Truckee Chapter 116, Order of Eastern Star, wish to remind members of the May 3 D.G.M. Reception at Bethany Chapter, Colfax. And on May 12 the G.G.M. officials visit at Truckee of which Dorothy Corbin, P.M., is chairman.

Ft. Lauderdale, Florida was winter home for the Lenny Hermans of Incline Village. Now back to Tahoe after closing at the Ponderosa in Reno, getting ready for the North Shore opening.

Louise and Dan Anderson of Tahoe Vista, Ethel and Larry Wood of Auburn and Bonnie and Joe Johnson of Desert Hot Springs are back to their respective homes after a Mexican holiday. A month was spent at San Carlos, fishing and relaxing, a couple of weeks at El Rincon, and a month at Guadalarjara.

The group returned home via Desert Hot Springs. The Andersons visited their daughter, Patty Cross, and children, and Millie Dersoby, and children in the Bay Area before they returned to home and work.

THEY PLACED AT MEET - Two Incline High School track team members placed last weekend when 16 schools from throughout the state competed at a meet at Smith Valley High School. Ian Jones finished fourth in the long jump at 18'11" and Jim Cantrell came in third in the 120-yard high hurdles. Varsity track team members shown ready for a workout on the Incline High football field are Jim Cantrell, Mark Battaglia, Ian Jones, John Cangemi, Mike Bauer, Bryan Isball, Frank Facciolla, Dan Bauer, Mark Hollerback. Not shown are Keith Faber and Bill Schwab. The varsity will meet Smith Valley at Smith on Friday: Fernley at Fernley, April 25; Yerington at Yerington, May 2. The team will participate in the May 9 zone track meet at University of Nevada. If they qualify they will compete in the state meet in Las Vegas on May 15 and 16. Principal Carl Shaff is coach. - Incline News Photo

California dope addicts might mar Nevada treatment plan

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - Methadone treatment for heroin addicts is being considered in Nevada, but the chief of the state narcotics division says he fears Nevada would be flooded with addicts from neighboring California.

Phillip Hannifin says that when Oregon began a program to give addicts daily maintenance doses of the heroin substitute that state was overloaded with Californians. Nevada, he said, could experience the same difficutly.

Methadone is an inexpensive drug that satisfies the craving of a heroin addict, but does not subject him to the same degree of addiction or debilitation.

When the Nevada State Hospital started using methadone for withrawal two years ago, Dr. Clifton McPharland, the hospital's senior psychiatrist, said it was "swamped."

Now a court order is required to make sure the program is limited to Nevadans.

Hannifin said the program would provide daily doses of methadone, the size to depend on the intensity of the patient's habit. Addicts generally show up one a day to receive doses, then try to lead normal lives.

Problems might also arise, Hannifin said, because nobody knows the real costs involved or how many addicts there are in Nevada.

The Nevada Legislature would have to act before a methadone program could begin. It meets next in 1971.

Youth fined

Judge William Beemer imposed a $100 fine Thursday when Frederick A. von Brincken, Jr., 19, was convicted of petty larceny in Reno Justice Court.

The youth was accused of taking merchandise from Eagle Thrifty store at Incline Village on March 9.

Cal Neva convention schedule set

After less than a year of operation, the Cal-Neva Lodge at North Lake Tahoe has established itself as a popular convention site.

More than 7,100 persons will attend conventions in the next seven months at the multi-story resort hotel, according to Gordon Horsley, sales and public relations director.

The largest activity scheduled this month is the Rotary International District Conference, April 24-26. Some 375 persons will attend.

Other groups on the convention calendar include the Telephone Pioneers of America, the Nevada State Department of Education, the California Medical Association Institute for Postgraduate Studies, City of Hope (300 persons).

Tahoe Pi Phi's invited to lunch

Mrs. Edward Black of Incline Beach, president of Nevada Alpha House Corp. of Pi Beta Phi, announced today the fraternity's Founder's Day Luncheon will be held Saturday, April 25. She urged all area Pi Phi's to attend.

The event is slated for the Sparks Nugget Convention Center beginning at 11:30 p.m. It commemorates the 103rd birthday of Pi Beta Phi and is for both alumnae and active members.

"We have no idea how many Pi Phi's there may be in the area and no way to get in touch with them, so we are hoping they will read about the luncheon and make reservations," said Mrs. Black.

Mrs. Black said she is holding reservations open through Friday, April 24, so Tahoe Alumni can join the party. Reservations may be made by calling her at 831-0297 or Mrs. Carl Shaff at 831-0546.

Honors, awards and scholarships will feature the luncheon. Speaker will be the immediate past grand president of Pi Beta Phi, Mrs. Kent R. Morgan of Lincoln, Neb.

Mrs. Morgan held office from 1967 to 1969 and is now alternate delagate to the National Panhellenic Conference. A graduate of University of Nebraska she has been active in YMCA, RED Cross, Camp Fire Girls, PEO Sisterhood and community theater.

High Altitude Gardening

By Ronald H. Gustafson
Washoe County Extension Horticulturist

A very easy way to add color to a hot weather garden is with summer – flowering bulbs. These include dahlias, gladiolus, anemones, ranuaculus, lilies and tuberous begonias. Many of you gardners are familiar with the beauty of the various flowers from bulbs that bloom in the summer garden.

Most summer – flowering bulbs should be planted in the spring. So now is the time to study catalogs, ads, etc., and order early for the best selection. The first step is, of course, to purchase quality bulbs from reliable sources. Bargain bulbs can sometimes be very disappointing. If you buy bulbs from a reliable source you can be fairly sure of getting the best quality possible.

Dahlias – With such an infinite variety of shapes, sizes and colors of dahlias, everyone of us should find a favorite among the selection available. you may find interest among the tiny pompons, no more than one inch in diameter. Or perhaps your taste is for the shaggy flowers as big as dinner plates.

Plant dahlias directly in the garden in spring when frost danger is past. Prepare the soil for each root by digging a hole a foot wide and deep. Work in a half cup of bonemeal and some compost. Set the tuber in this conditioned soil at about a 2 inch depth. Be sure to place it with the growing tip up. It may be a good idea to place a stout stake into the ground now for the large dahlias, which will need staking. Damage to the tuber can result if it is put in after planting.

Gladiolus – Leading all other summer – flowering bulbs in popularity is the Glads. The colors are almost countless and they will grow in almost every section of the country. It is safe to plant gladiolus outdoors as soon as the soil is open enough to spade and danger of refreezing is past. Plant the bulbs about 3–5 inches deep and six inches apart. Repeat planting every two weeks throughout spring and early summer for a continuous display of bloom.

Lilies – This is truly a hardy summer–flowering bulb. Lilies can be planted in fall or spring. Planting depth varies from 5–10 inches depending on the type. Lilies like shade for their roots and are particularly benefited by a thick mulch kept in place the year around.

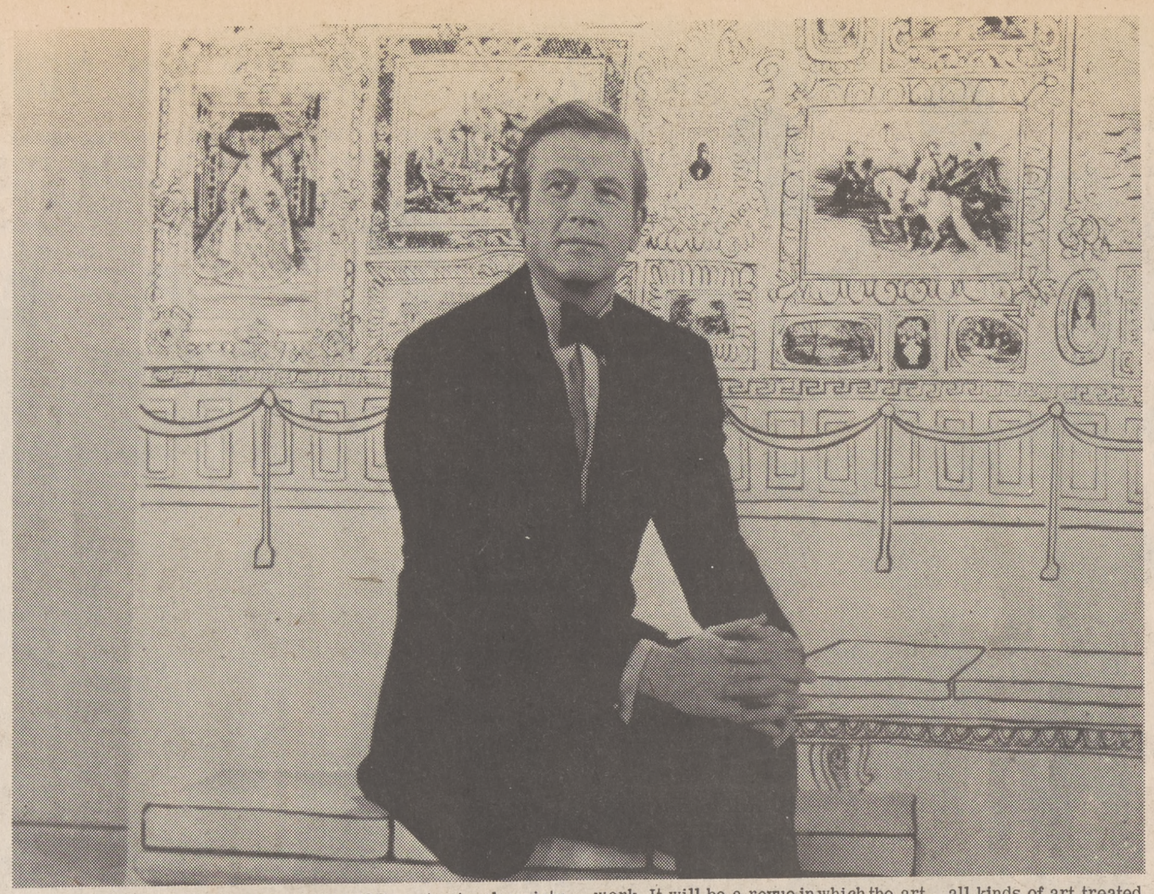
Ranunculus – Ranunculus produce many double globe–like flowers of yellow, scarlet, crimson, pink or white. They are most effective as cut flowers. They should be planted about 1 inch deep. Plant with the 'claws' down and water the soil well while planting, then do not water too much until the plants are in full growth.

Tuberous–rooted begonias – Flowers look almost like roses, carnations or camellias. Plant indoors in boxes filled with damp peat moss. When sprouts are 2–3 inches high, transplant to pots. After June 1, pots can be planted in the ground outside. Tubers may also be planted directly outdoors in the garden after danger of frost.

Have you been taking it easy this winter? None of that strenuous skiing for you?

Then heed a warning: don't plunge into your spring gardening without some physical preparation. Muscles become lazy when not used for months. Many avid gardeners who have been inactive over the winter will rush right out and start digging, raking, and planting at the first sign of spring. Result: Cramped, aching muscles, and often severe back pain.

Start slowly and increase the effort and time a little each day. Use a routine of mild to moderate exercise for several weeks before starting heavy gardening, and in no time the winter kinks will be worked out and you will be ready to enjoy gardening.



NEW ROLE FOR NEW YORK'S MAYOR – A visual variety show, "Marvelous! Magnificent! The Metropolitan Meseum!" with New York City's Mayor John Lindsay as on–camera host, will be colorcast by NBC News as a one–hour TV special to mark the centenary of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The program will be presented Sunday, April 26 on the NBC Television Network. It will be a revue in which the art – all kinds of art treated in a variety of ways – is the star of the show. There will be an animal act, and a ballet, a tour through the Netherlands, a side–show and a dozen other numbers all built from selections drawn from the more than 3,000,000 objects in the museum.

State magazine features University of Nevada

The rapid growth of education in Nevada is dramatically presented in the current issue of the official state publication, Nevada Magazine, now on newsstands throughout the country.

The University of Nevada is featured in the lead article by Reno author David Toll who tells how early struggles were overcome to bring the university – both north and south campuses – to its present stature. Lively color photographs accompany the story, graphically illustrating new facilities on both campuses as well as many student activities.

In another story Las Vegas author Malcolm Thompson describes innovations in education recently introduced by Southern Nevada Vo–Tech High School.

A tale of obstacles bridged is titled "The Show Goes On" and recalls the difficult beginnings and eventual success of Reno Little Theatre, currently entering its 36th consecutive season.

Student fixes bachelor stew

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Linda Lee Hess, 21-year-old want-ad cook, made one major stipulation before going to work for two Grand Forks' bachelors.

Miss Hess, a registered nurse and student at the University of North Dakota, told the bachelor duo that she refused to cook for more than 14 people.

That's the number of harvest hands she cooked for on her father's farm where she was adept at whipping up a "complete dinner of fried chicken, potatoes, pie and list that." She is the daughter of Edward Hess of Lockhart, in northwestern Minnesota.

On a dare from her landlady, Linda answered a newspaper advertisement placed by Joe Crawford, a secondary schoolteacher, and Bob Hamilton, a charter plane pilot.

Their advertisement read in part: "Young, attractive female needed to cook supper for two bachelors, 4 to 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday. Excellent pay, but no fringe benefits."

The pretty 5 foot 9 brunette says the only thing passed so far in the kitchen of her two bachelor employers has been the butter.

"As my roommate pointed out, if anything got 'fringe' I always had my rolling pin and I didn't have to sign anything, so I can get out of it anytime I want."

Workers begin harvesting the nation's ugliest crop: Litter

WASHINGTON (AP) – Springtime '70. As snowbanks recede workers fan out to reap a bumper crop of the nation's ugliest harvest: Litter.

Government officials, meanwhile, are proposing new taxes, regulations or research on the NRs – nonreturnable bottles and cans – to cut down the potential source of trash.

Clean-up volunteers, stirred in part by popularization of the environment as a social and political issue, are supplementing highway and park crews which have been gathering the trash for years.

Stone County, Ark., freed children from school to pick up litter. Officials expect 70,000 or more persons to turn out for "Green Up Day" in Vermont Saturday. Huntington, W. Va., residents will be scouring the town for bottles the same day to earn a $20 a ton bounty from Owens-Illinois glass company.

And in Portland, Ore., John Piacentini shows off a pile of cans and bottles outside the warehouse for the 60 Plaid Pantry supermarkets he owns.

The pile represents only a few of the 3 million or so cans and bottles turned in to his stores after he offered a half a cent apiece. The project, which lasted 18 days, cost him $15,000.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., estimates that unless the gradual demise of the deposit bottle is reversed, the 25 billion one-way cans and bottles produced in 1958 will swell to 58 billion six years from now.

Nelson's proposed Packaging Pollution Control Act would empower the government to levy "packaging charges" on containers "scaled to reflect the level of adverse environment effects."

Oregon and Indiana are considering similar measures.

More immediately, Nelson and other officials like presidential consumer assistant Virginia Knauer have turned their heaviest fire on the can and bottle industry in an attempt to roll back the snowballing trend toward NRs.

The expense of the NRs is plain. The wholesale price lists for Pepsi-Cola and Coca-Cola in Washington show a case of 24 12-ounce deposit bottles is 2.10 plus 48 cents deposit. A case of 10-ounce throw-away bottles costs $2.55. A case of 12-ounce cans costs $2.85.

Beer bottles used to be good for 38 trips from brewery to consumer and back again. Now deposit beer bottles make 19 trips. Returnable soft drink bottles make half that many.

Industry spokesmen cite the same figures as a sign that increasingly affluent consumers want the convenience of throw-aways despite the cost. Richard L. Cheney, executive director of the Glass Manufacturers Institute, notes Pepsi-Cola raised deposits to five cents in New York recently on a new batch of 600,000 16-ounce bottles. The bottles disappeared in six months.

But some dispute the contention that consumers want the NRs.

Dave Levinger, president of the New York local of the Soft Drink Workers Union, says the rise of larger bottling plants covering a wide area leads bottlers to encourage NRs and save the cost of transporting empty bottles.

The can and bottle industry supports public service cleanup campaigns and works with the government on research on disposal.

Aluminum firms pay a half a cent apiece for cans and melt them down for more cans. David P. Reynolds of Reynolds Aluminum reports 217,000 cans were turned in in one week in Los Angeles after offering the reward.

The Glass Container Manufacturers Institute had planned a $7.5 million campaign to promote throw-away bottles until Mrs. Knauer criticized the campaign in a speech. Now the campaign will include anti-litter messages.

Pepsi-Cola is test marketing a burnable bottle. Federally funded scientists at Clemson University are experimenting with one which dissolves in water after being broken. The U. S. Bureau of Mines has developed a way to separate metal and glass from trash and make the substance reusable.

DC 2 craft added to collection

SANTA MONICA (AP) - A once impressive part of Southern California aircraft production now is part of the Deep South, thanks to the interest of Colgate W. Darden III in ancient planes.

Darden, professor of nuclear physics at the University of South Carolina, is the owner of a refurbished version of the DC2.

Perhaps airplanes can't be classified as ancient, but the 14-passenger Douglas Commercial Airliner No. 2 comes close. It made its debut May 11, 1934. Its total payload: 4,000 pounds.

Yet it quickly bettered 19 speed records.

Darden, son of a former Virginia governor, added it recently to his collection of vintage aircraft at Columbia, S.C.

He caused considerable nostalgia when de departed Long Beach Airport with what company officials say is only one of two known surviving DC2s.

Cruising at a maximum speed of 150 miles per hour, his chosen course took him over the giant McDonnel Douglas Corp. plant.

His two-engine plane passed over row upon row of DC8s - capable of accommodating 259 passengers at supersonic speeds. But oldtimers on the ground did not - and could not - forget the DC 2.

They said the only other known DC 2 still operating is a workhorse aircraft - alternately hauling smokejumpers and cargo - on charter flights from the Johnson Flying Service in Missoula, Mont.

Darden's plane was used by the Navy in World War II. It was later owned by such diverse entities as a wealthy Texan, North American Aviation and Mercer Airlines of Burbank, Calif.

Darden purchased it in 1968 and has since expended considerable funds on its interior and exterior restoration.

All told, 130 of the DC 2s were built. Only one DC1 was assembled, and it was initially purchased by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and - after subsequent transactions - crashed in spain in 1940.

Technology learned from the DC 2 led to the DC 3, regarded by experts as one of the most durable and versatile airplanes ever made. American Airlines was a foster parent of the DC3, requesting an aircraft that had sleeper accommodations.

The rest is history, known well to Colgate W. Darden III.

Domino buffs' tourney set

SAN FRANCISCO - Northern and Central California domino enthusiasts are invited to submit entries now for the annual Guardsmen Domino Tournament, which will be held May 9 at the Cannery in San Francisco, with proceeds going to the Guardsmen Campership Fund to help send underprivileged children to summer camps.

A record number of teams is expected to compete in the one-day tournament for the grand prize of a round-trip for four aboard P & O Lines' Arcadia for the Vancouver Circle Island Cruise.

The tax-deductible entry fee for each two-man team is $60. For the first time this year, the fee may be charged on Bank-Americard or Master Charge, according to Steve Henderson, Tournament chairman.

Entry forms are available from the Guardsmen office, 12 Geary St., San Francisco 94108.

For the first time, the Guardsmen are offering 10 free hotel accommodations on a first come, first served basis to entrants living more than 45 miles from San Francisco.

The Guardsmen have sponsored more than 62,000 needy youngsters at camps since the organization was founded in 1947. Goal for this year is a record 3,000 boys and girls.

Plan to halt gerrymandering is beat

SACRAMENTO (AP) – A proposal designed to end gerrymandering in California once and for all has been killed by the Assembly Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendments.

Gerrymandering is the practice of drawing legislative district boundaries so that one party has an advantage over the other. California's legislative districts will be redrawn next year after 1970 census figures become available. Whichever party controls the legislature would be expected to give itself a ten-year advantage in drawing the new boundaries.

A constitutional amendment proposed by Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, would have linked state legislative districts to Congressional districts, making gerrymandering almost impossibly difficult.

Veysey's scheme would have amended the state constitution making the number of state senators equal to the number of congressmen and the number of assemblymen twice that. Each congressional district would thus become also a state senate district and would be divided into two state assembly districts.

Besides preventing gerrymandering, Veysey said his proposal would greatly reduce the cost of state elections by simplifying the printing of ballots and reducing the confusion in voters' minds.

The amendment was killed Thursday when none of the Republican members of the committee present would second a motion by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, to approve the amendment. Other Democratic members of the committee were absent and no vote was taken.

Unusual filling

For a delicious sandwich filling, mix chopped walnuts with pimiento-flavored cream cheese and mayonnaise. Use brown bread when you are making up the sandwiches. Nice for the lunchbox.

Popular protectors: trained dogs

NEW YORK (AP) – He has been trained for one thing. Now he lives for that goal: to protect you from any danger whatsoever. Real or threatened.

If it's real, he awaits the word he seldom hears but never forgets. "Fass," German for grab. Or "Stop it." or "Watch it." He reacts instantaneously. His bite has 750 pounds of pressure, enough to snap a collarbone, break a forearm or numb a limb. A bullet, unless fired by an expert marksman, probably won't stop him. During his training he has always won. Always. Now he thinks he's invincible, whether the enemy is a dim-witted mugger, a gang of 10 bullies or serious thieves packing serious weapons.

If the danger is only threatened, he will only growl with hackles raised, ears straight-up, awaiting the order he loves to obey.

He is your attack-trained dog, probably a Doberman-Pinscher or German shepherd that can weigh from 70 to 135 pounds, take up to a year to train and cost up to $4,000.

As crime rates soar in big cities and wealthy suburbs, more and more people are buying a dog for protection. After a sensational case like the Sharon Tate murders, sales skyrocket.

Dog trainers estimate there are more than one million trained protection dogs in the United States, concentrated mostly in the large cities. There are close to 5,000 in New York City alone.

Some buy them too late.

A 24-year-old senior at Columbia University was raped in her Morningside Heights apartment last winter. A week later the same man tried to break in again, this time chased off by a neighbor. A few days later the petite blonde bought "Loose," an 85-pound German shepherd. She got a $900 education loan from Columbia to buy the dog.

Loose is 3 years old, obedience-trained and going through attack training with his new master.

"On Thursday I was on the verge of collapse," says the girl. "On Friday, I felt perfectly secure." Friday was the day her new pet moved in.

Although not attack-trained yet, there is no doubt in any visitor's mind what Loose would do should someone try and get in. His low rumbling growls begin as footsteps approach the door of her second-floor walk-up in this high crime area. The ring of the doorbell triggers barks that can be heard throughout the building, barks that clearly are not coming from a miniature anything.

She inquires who's calling and if the visitor is accepted she tells Loose that it's a friend and it's okay. Loose eyes the company, then lies down at the girl's feet, appearing no more threatening than good, old faithful Spot.

Harry Goldsmith bought Rex seven years ago as a king-sized ounce of prevention. Goldsmith, owner of an electronics firm, wanted him primarily to guard his plush English Tudor home in the wealthy Riverdale section of New York.

Two years ago, Goldsmith was walking Rex on a dark and deserted road. A man stepped out from the bushes and demanded his money. Rex was out of sight, in another clump of bushes. Goldsmith told the man he had no money with him. The man muttered a threat and Goldsmith whistled. Rex tore to him and Goldsmith grabbed his collar and snapped the order to Rex. The dog, snarling and snapping, was on his hind legs, taller than the assailant. Who fled.

"It's a felony to put a dog on a man and I wasn't sure whether the hand in his pocket held a gun or not. If he didn't, it would have been his word against mine that it was self-defense," he says.

A dog like Rex is one you never allow out of the house alone. A salesman or mailman cutting across the yard, a repairman or meterman all look the same in his eyes: a threat to the people he will sacrifice his life to protect.

Not everyone needs a dog this trained and most trainers will not sell them to everyone. Some refuse to sell to a family with young children, reasoning that sooner or later the dog will be teased to the point of striking. Others disagree, claiming the well-trained dog is actually safer than a small poodle which might snap.

Tom Nova, a trainer in the New York area, tells about an elderly woman who came into his shop and wanted an attack dog. She definitely couldn't handle it.

"What if she had that dog on the lead and some kids came careening around the corner straight at her? She wouldn't react fast enough to tell the dog this was not a direct threat. So I sold her a nice, obedience-trained dog, gave her one of my window stickers that says the dog is attack-trained and told her to spread the word in her neighborhood that this was a vicious dog. She's better off with that kind of animal."

The trainers say they sometimes get a strange clientele of would-be owners – from drug-pushers to women recently divorced and aching for a little feminine revenge, to one fellow whose speciality in life is getting into barroom brawls. They're turned down.

The trainers are fond of comparing the animals to cocked pistols. Obviously everyone shouldn't have one.

Often all that is needed is an "image dog," an untrained Doberman or shepherd. At first glance and the dog's first bark it is impossible to tell whether the dog is trained to tear an intruder to pieces or lick his face.

"It's the same principle as laying a sawed-off shotgun on the counter," says Nova. "Only you know for sure whether it's loaded and nobody in their right mind is going to take the chance."

At the opposite extreme of protection dogs are the ones Nova calls his "cold killer" or his "psyched-out dogs." Most could never adjust to life in a home. Either rented or bought, these dogs are used mostly for night-shift guarding; construction sites, department stores, factories, warehouses, office buildings, jewelry stores, liquor stores.

Cheesecake: spring dessert

Glistening with jewel - like strawberries, promising creamy smooth texture, long-lasting cheese flavor - what could it be? A cheesecake, naturally. But never before has there been such a cheesecake! This one, would be a super-glamorous dessert for a spring buffet dinner or a bridal or baby shower.

Since the mix itself is so easy to prepare, it can be the perfect spur-of-the-moment dessert - it's ready to serve after chilling for 1 hour. Here's how it's done: Take the contents of the crust mix pouch and blend it with sugar and butter or margarine; press over the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie pan; chill for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, blend the filling mix with cold milk and beat until thick. Pour the mixture into the chilled crust and chill an additional hour.

For the Strawberry Party Cheesecake with its superb glaze of strawberries, you use two packages of the unbaked cheesecake to fill a 9 - inch spring-form pan. For the glaze, just cover the top with fresh strawberries (or blueberries) and brush on melted currant jelly to glaze.

Strawberries and cheesecake combine in another way in delicious Jellied Strawberry Cheesecake. Here the strawberries are in a layer of strawberry flavor gelatin, and are topped with the cheesecake, making a distinctive layered dessert that would be an excellent choice for a contribution to a potluck supper.

STRAWBERRY PARTY CHEESECAKE

2 packages (10-¾ oz. each) unbaked cheesecake
6 tablespoons sugar
½ cup butter or margarine, melted or softened
3 cups milk
1 pint fresh strawberries, halved
½ cup currant jelly, melted and cooled

To make crust, combine contents of both pouches of crust, the sugar, and butter. Mix well. Press on bottom and halfway up sides of 9-inch spring-form pan. Chill 15 minutes before filling. Or bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes; then chill before filling.

To make the filling, measure milk into bowl. Add contents of both filling mix pouches. Beat as directed on package. Pour into prepared crust. Cover top with strawberries; then brush berries with jelly. Chill at least 2 hours. Makes 12 servings.

Blueberry Party Cheesecake. Prepare Strawberry Party Cheesecake as directed, substituting 1 pint fresh blueberries for the strawberries.

JELLIED STRAWBERRY CHEESECAKE

1 package (10-¾ oz.) unbaked cheesecake
1 pint (about) strawberries halved
1 package (3 oz.) strawberry flavor gelatin
¼ cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
½ tray ice cubes (7 to 10, depending on size)

Prepare cheesecake as directed on package, using a 9 - inch square pan and pressing crumb mixture only over bottom of pan. layer over cheesecake. Dissolve gelatin and sugar in boiling water. Add ice cubes; stir until gelatin is slightly thickened. Remove any unmelted ice. Spoon gelatin over strawberries. Chill until firm - about 1½ hours. Makes 9 to 12 servings.

Alternate Baking Pans: This cheesecake may also be prepared in a 9-inch spring-form pan or a 9-inch glass layer pan.

BERRY–BEAUTIFUL CHEESECAKE – For a really special occasion, you will want to serve this Strawberry Party Cheesecake. Made from unbaked cheesecake, it has all the qualities you expect in the finest of cheesecakes – smooth creamy texture, long–lasting cheese flavor.

Tidy house depends on set routine

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is there a formula for easier house cleaning and entertaining asks a young woman who's been married one year.

She claims she "can't ever get ahead of the housework." Her husband complains the house is a mess. She can't bear to have company, she says, "because it exhausts me so.

"When I'm ready to serve guests, I notice the silver needs to be cleaned or I discover the napkins aren't ironed. Or I don't have all the ingredients I need for the meal."

Routine is an unimaginative word, but it is the only solution to the housekeeping problem.

Two first-thing projects that keep a house looking neat are: (1) putting away everything that is not in its proper place before you do anything else; (2) vacuuming or washing floors. Then you can dust when you get a chance.

If this routine is followed daily, the house will look neat until you get around to polishing brass door knobs, washing windows, and so on. Some people wash windows seasonally; those who live in sooty areas must wash windows more often. Bathroom tile and fixtures should be washed once a week. Floors may need to be mopped twice a week.

Keep track of foods needed by making a list of every staple flour, salt, sugar, pepper. Add to the list those foods you like to keep on hand — pancake flour, syrup, cereal. Use this list as your master list.

You write the week's menus, then list all the ingredients needed for a particular meal. For example, if you plan curried shrimp, you will need curry powder. If you are planning a special recipe such as lasagna, check the ingredients. Do you need ricotta or cottage cheese? Tomato Sauce? Chopped meat?

You add those items to the staples needed, and that's the list you take to market.

When you give a dinner party, write out everything in advance. You must write "tablecloth," "candlesticks," "placemats," and be sure you have them on hand. Silver should be polished. A centerpiece might be prepared. If you have nothing else, float a few leaves or flowers in a bowl of water.

Life at its Best

By Marie Patterson
"Best in Life" series Channel 10

Plan ahead if you want to feed your family for health without making drudgery of your food preparations. The tendancy to grab something from the local market shelf that says, add milk or water and serve, will become unnecessary by careful planning. Experimenting in food is fun, and as you choose your own indredients you will be able to avoid the harmful additives we will discuss later. If you need help with your experiments in recipes, particularly the ones in this column, I'll be glad to help.

Summer is near, try a fruit salad served with crunchy bread sticks.

FRUIT SALAD

1 can pineapple tidbits or fresh pineapple
10 dates pitted and chopped
3 large ripe bananas
2 apples
Frozen oragne juice
1 orange

Peel and dice all fruits, being sure to remove all the tiny stickers from the fresh pineapple as well as the cone or drain the canned pineapple. Mix all together adding orange concentrate. Top with chopped nuts or coconut. Try strawberries or canteloupe in place of apples.

Entire grains are foods almost completely missing from the average diet, and they are really vitality producing foods, chuck full of vitamins and minerals, proteins and carbohydrates. These flours can be purchased at health food stores. The following recipe uses several of these grains to make delicious bread sticks children love.

BREAD STICKS

½ c. sesame seed (whizzed in blender)
2 c. whole wheat pastry flour
1 c. soy flour
½ c. wheat germ
¼ c. honey
½ c. millet flour
¼ c. oil
1¾ t. salt
¾ c. water

Mix all to form ball, kneading in dry ingredients until taken up in dough. Break off one-third of dough and roll into smooth roll (as for ice box cookies). Pat and roll with rolling pin to strips ½ inch thick. Cut in strips ¾ inch wide and across to about 4 inches long. Place on cookie sheet and bake at 350 until light brown about 25 min. Store in plastic bags.

Acquire the label reading habit when shopping for food. Prepared foods such as cereals, package cakes, flours, oils, and shortening are the foods most apt to contain chemicals and additives. Read the fine print - the names alone will frighten you. According to the food industry such things are added to make foods more attractive, tastier, more convenient to prepare and keep longer. Physicians are wondering how many undiscovered allergy sensitizing, cancer forming, brain damaging, and gastric-irritating perils lurk in processed food, according to 1970 World Book Science Service.

GRANOLA

1 c. whole wheat flour
1 c. oatmeal
1 c. soy flour
½ c. millet flour
1 c. unsweetened coconut (whizzed)
¼ c. sesame seed (whizzed)
1¾ t. salt
1 c. wheat germ
¼ c. oil
½ c. honey
¾ c. water

Mix ingredients all together in order given into a crumble-not too fine. Bake at 325 turning and stirring occasionally with pancake turner until light brown. Turn off oven and let dextrinize, stirring a few more times. Each crumble should be dry and crunchy. Store in plastic bag.

Thoughts For Today

"The relation that exists between the mind and the body is very intimate. When one is affected, the other sympathizes. The condition of the mind affects the health to a far greater degree than many realize. Many of the diseases from which people suffer are the result of mental depression. Grief, anxiety, discontent, remorse, guilt, distrust - all tend to break down the life forces and to invite decay and death.

Courage, hope, faith, sympathy, and love promote health and prolong life. A contented mind, a cheerful spirit, is health to the body and strength to the soul." Life at its Best page 147.

"A merry (rejoicing) hearth doeth good like a medicine." Proverbs 17:22.

Agnew termed 'brilliant' orator

NEW YORK – The oratorical skills of Spiro T. Agnew are nothing short of brilliant, contends Martin Mayer in an exclusive article analyzing the speeches of the vice-president in May Esquire, published April 14.

Oratory and invective have been the historical tradition of democracy, especially in America. Yet, about 20 years ago, says Mayer, stylistic distinction disappeared from American oratory.

"Dwight Eisenhower's syntax," insists Mayer in Esquire, "was an invention in linguistics when he spoke for himself; and when he delivered a prepared oration, the genius of his advisers . . . kept him from saying anything at all."

"Camelot," continues Mayer, "took us rapidly from bad to worse, with the abominable seesaw of Theodore Sorensen, the awfulness of an Alliance for Progress and a Peace Corps . . . and then there are . . . the bits of transparent yet distorting sincerity that lie suspended near the surface of every Richard Nixon speech, like globules of fat in a reheated chicken soup."

Mayer blames this oratorical decline on a diminishing acquaintance with Latin and the Bible (the twin sources of great English prose); and on the prevalence of television in our lives. "Oratory," he explains in Esquire, "depends on a sensed audience response, and television . . . is a medium to which active response is infrequent . . ."

But in the Fall of 1969, American political oratory sprang dramatically to life in a trio of utterly unexpected speeches by Spiro T. Agnew. "For six weeks, the vice-president's speeches dominated the conversation of sophisticated people on the eastern seaboard, a situation without precedent in American history."

Mayer then goes on to analyze the most famous of all Agnew's sentences: "A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals."

The sentence as a whole, continues Mayer, has a faint odor of George Wallace's "pointy-headed professors." But "impudent snobs" was unexpected and not bad, especially in October, when the Chicago Seven were revelling in ill-considered courtroom impudence. "For whatever reason, the effect was instantaneous: pink buttons appeared on lapels, reading 'I am an effete impudent snob.' "

DEAN OF ENTERTAINMENT – Jimmy Dean, popular country and western musician, singer, comedian and storyteller, opens at John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks for two weeks.

Dean opens at Nugget

There used to be a little boy in Plainview, Texas, running around barefoot and in overalls who plunked out tunes on a beat up guitar. He probably wanted to grow up to be a fireman or cowboy, but it didn't work out that way.

One day, many years later, he was traveling to Chicago and wrote a tune on a scrap of paper. He recorded that song and has been a star of the first magnitude ever since.

His name is Jimmy Dean and the song rode high, wide and handsome on the music popularity charts to the tune of 3 million copies. It's called "Big Bad John."

Jimmy Dean is the same man he was when he left the little town of Plainview, Texas. He is more city-wise, more sophisticated, has quite a bit more money and is a star, but as he says, "Mom always said to be yourself. If people don't like you as you are, they won't like you as someone else."

His legion of fans apparently like what he is, a homespun, singing humorist in cowboy boots.

Besides "Big Bad John," his hits include "PT-109," "This Old House," "The Cajun Queen," and "Striker Bill."

When he's not working, relaxation for Dean takes the form of fishing, hunting, riding and water-skiing.

Tricia and Group in third week

Tricia Gail and the Group, the brunette songstress and a trio of electric young musicians, begin their third exciting week of nightly entertainment at Nevada Lodge, North Lake Tahoe's resort hotel. Crowd pleasing performances by Tricia Gail and Bob Hubener (The Group's leader) have established the combo as a North Lake Tahoe top attraction.

They appear nightly in the Topaz Room of the Nevada Lodge, where guests enjoy the excellent buffet served there Saturday and Sunday evenings, and stay overnight in one of the Lodge's 100 view guest rooms.

Their show sparkles with pleasant surprises – as when they render a familiar old standard in crisp, contemporary styling and arrangement. Tricia Gail and The Group will close their stay at the North Tahoe action center April 26. Taking their place in the Topaz Room's spotlight, beginning April 28, will be virtuoso saxophonist Joe Sante. The Joe Sante Quartet features Irene Keller, the lovely, husky voiced chanteuse.

Guest star

Richard Kiley, who starred in "Man of La Mancha" on Broadway, has been cast as a ruthless bounty hunter in the "Stark" episode of "Gunsmoke," currently being filmed.

Suzanne Pleshette, Henry Wilcoxon and Shelly Novack are also in the cast.

James Arness stars in the series as Matt Dillon with Milburn Stone as Doc, Amanda Blake as Kitty and Ken Curtis as Festus.

Garbage Toter

Asked how she keeps Brandon from being spoiled, Mrs. Edwina Cruz, mother of the child star of the ABC Television Network's "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" (Wednesdays, 8-8:30 PM, PST), answers:

"Make him do chores around the house. He even takes out the garbage, just like the other children."

HARRAH'S DEBUT - Diahann Carroll, who unreserved, sincere style has captivated audiences the past 10 years, is currently in her final week in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room.

SHARE BILLING - Comedian Bill Cosby and singer-composer Ray Charles will combine to bring humor and music to Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room for three weeks beginning April 28. The outstanding talent combination will feature Cosby reprising some of his most hilarious comedy routines while Charles will play and sing some of his biggest hits.

Diahann Carroll nears end of Harrah's stint

There's a refreshing honesty and sincerity about Diahann Carroll.

Armed with natural charm and an expressive delivery, Miss Carroll captivated an opening night audience in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room, where she will appear through April 27.

"I've been a saloon singer all my life. I just couldn't wait to get away from that darn clinic," joked the stunning songstress, star of NBC-TV's "Julia," "its always a homecoming when I step back on stage."

Tuesday night was also a homecoming for some 500 theatre-goers, who may have been away from the tender, treasured moments that give meaning to their lives.

Through her sensitive, vivid interpretations, those in the audience were temporarily able to relive those moments.

The television nurse zeros into a falsehood with a scalpel, peels away pretention and exposes emotion. A lyric becomes a release of undisguised sincerity, and a song a flow of the soul.

Her unreserved, searching style was evident from the beginning as she poured herself into "There's a New World Coming" and "Sweet Beginning."

Miss Carroll's engaging renderings of Irving Berlin's "Remember" and "How Deep is the Ocean?" elevated the spirits, as did her "Distant Drum" and closing number, "God Bless the Child."

With "Some of These Days," "Good Lovin' " and "You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling," singer proved she could belt with force, but without infringing on feeling.

Contemporary numbers included "Yesterday" and "Here, There, Everywhere" from the Beatles, and "Everybody's Talkin' " from "Midnight Cowboy," the best picture winner of 1969.

Her show opens on an unusual note. Some two minutes of film, from her special "THE Diahann Carroll" to be aired in the fall, is projected on a 20-by 40-foot scrim, eventually fading into a singing Diahann Carroll.

Glenn Ash proves a first-rate crowd-pleaser through his comedy singing, and innings, on the guitar and banjo.

Ash antics include an impression of Johnny Cash, some Nashville strumming and impressions of highway patrolmen in New York, Japan, California and Mississippi.

Joe Guercio conducted the Brian Farnon Orchestra.

Next in the South Shore Room: Bill Cosby and Ray Charles, April 28 through May 18.

On the cover

Early signs of spring and summer outdoor sporting activities are usually visible on Lake Tahoe beginning with the warm sunny days in April.

Boating enthusiasts have already been seen hoisting their sails in the Tahoe breeze for an invigorating glide around the lake.

Tribune photographer Rex Lavoie grabbed this shot while in the Tahoe Keys area last week. The boat is a Rhodes 19 owned by Jim Hildinger.

No resistance

William Reynolds, star of ABC Television Network's "The FBI," became the victim of his own sales acumen. With the long-running series in hiatus, Reynolds is working full time at his real estate business in the San Fernando Valley.

A resident of Northridge, he was asked to sell a house in the community. He liked it and considered it such a good buy that he bought it. The actor, his wife, former actress Molly Sinclair, and their two children are now settled in their new home with a pool.

CABARET FIVE - From Korea comes the Brothers Kim, who will fill Harrah's Stateline Cabaret with music through May 13.

Postman rings

Barry Williams, who plays Greg, the oldest Brady boy on the ABC Television Network's "The Brady Bunch," has become popular with the teenage fans. He is drawing an average of a thousand letters a week.

Gin Rummy tourney held at club

About 75 players wanted to be winners in the $12,000 gin rummy tournament last week at the Cal-Neva Lodge. The sixteen gin players who made money in the April 5-8 event were "good." The losers worked on the corresponding theory that they were "unlucky."

In first place, Hollywood businessman Norman Le Pore won $5,000. John Crinklaw, an almond grower from Crows Landing, got $1,500 for second place. Third place Bill Wood, the assistant public information officer at Ft. Lewis, Wash., took $1,000 home to Tacoma. Earl Gilman, manager of the Massacre Canyon Inn and Golf Resort at Gilman Hot Springs, received $750 for fourth place.

Fifth through eighth place prizes were $500 each. Ninth through sixteenth prizes were $200.

Tournament Director Chester Wander, international gin rummy champion and author of the book "Winning at Gin," considers the bulk of gin rummy players to be "goers."

He explained: "If there is a card game to play, they play it - poker, pan, hearts, pinochle, bridge. If there are shows to see, they go. If there are horses, their children ride. If there are shops, they spend money. Gin players use all facilities. We are not a 'hot-house' variety like many bridge players.

A gin player wants to prove he is better. He will tell you he is the best in the world. If he is modest, he knows he is the best but won't tell you.

OPENS SEASON - Barbara McNair opens Harolds Club's 7th floor Fun Room for the 1970 season. Along with comedian Jackie Gayle and Don Conn's orchestra, Miss McNair will present two shows nightly at the Reno casino starting April 28.

Harolds opens showroom

Vocalist Barbara McNair kicks off the 1970 season in Harolds Club's 7th floor Fun Room when she opens the Reno casino's posh showroom next Tuesday. (April 28.)

Backed by Don Conn's orchestra, beauteous Barbara will present two shows nightly with a special early Sunday AM show for late stayers-out.

Sharing the bill with Miss McNair will be comedian Jackie Gayle, a fast thinking, loose talking, upper echelon comic who treats scared cows as a bull does a china shop.

Fun Room audiences, atuned as they are to variety, will dig Barbara's unique versatility as she pulls music of every idiom from her well-rounded songbag, all manner of tempo and style from Simon and Garfunkle to Rogers and Hammerstein.

Miss McNair brings a long list of movies and legit credits with her to Reno; a stint on Broadway in "No Strings," innumerable guest shots on TV as well as her own syndicated show, and five films, including her latest "They Call Me Mr. Tibbs," in which she stars opposite Sidney Piotier.

Following Barbara McNair in the Fun Room will be Boots Randolph (May 19) and Jerry Vale (June 9). Harry James, Buddy Greco, Jan Murray and Brenda Lee have all confirmed dates later this season.

Deacon Jones Revue breaks Castle records

The Deacon Jones Revue has shattered house records in the Casino Lounge at Kings Castle. Jones, at the half-way point in a four - week engagement, is rapidly becoming a local institution.

The towering sports hero has put together a stand-out show featuring soul sounds, tender ballads and rock tunes.

Deacon does two shows nightly, at 9 and 11:30. Ray Frazier and the Continentals keep things moving between shows with an eminently danceable rock beat. Showtimes are 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. on weekdays and 9 p.m. and 3 a.m. Friday and Saturday. The room is dark on Monday.

Local fashions have felt the Jones influence; the performer's wardrobe contains a striking double-breasted mink coat, figured bell-bottom trousers and some amazing ties. He's setting a whole new trend on Lake Tahoe's North Shore.

Deacon Jones started his show business career about a year ago, with several recordings on the Sundown label. One of the records, "Along Came Jones," became a hit and is now his theme song. He frequently opens the act with this parody of the classic "Perils of Pauline," always coming musically to the rescue just before calamity strikes.

Appearances with Rosy Grier and the Fearsome Foursome paved the way for Jones debut as a solo performer. Judging from audience response, he's got a promising career ahead.

Many of the events leading up to Deacon's decision to enter show business are detailed in his upcoming biography, "Life In The Pits," to be published this fall by Doubleday.

Cal-Neva popular site for lake conventions

After less than a year of operation, the Cal-Neva Lodge at North Lake Tahoe has established itself as a popular convention site. More than 7,100 persons will attend conventions in the next seven months at the multi-story resort hotel, according to Gordon Horsley, sales and public relations director.

The largest activity scheduled this month is the Rotary International District Conference, April 24-26. 375 persons will attend.

Some other groups on the convention calendar include the Telephone Pioneers of America, the Nevada State Department of Education, the California Medical Association Institute for Postgraduate Studies, City of Hope (300 persons), Maritime Golf Tournament (350 persons), Eastman-Kodak, Prentice Hall Inc., and the Nevada State Bar Association.

Convention meeting facilities include the Celebrity Room Theatre Restaurant which will seat 1,000 for meetings, the Nevada Room which will seat 750 persons and the California Room which will handle 400 with a balcony overlooking Lake Tahoe running the full length of the room.

Meal functions, cocktail parties, accommodations and entertainment are tailored to the needs of any size group.

Farentine: waiting for right movie

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Critics and audiences might well disagree with James Farentino's self-appraisal: "I haven't really done anything in this business I can be proud of, but I'm looking forward to making a good picture someday." For at 32, Farentino already has several starring motion picture roles to his credit, including "The Pad" for which he won the Golden Globe award in 1966. And he is well known to television audiences for his portrayal of lawyer Neil Darrell in "The Bold Ones."

But success has not prevented the young actor from being critical — both of himself and of the media that made him famous. Relaxed and charming in person, he has a soft-spoken manner that softens his harsh comments about the motion picture and television industries. But he feels strongly about his craft and the use of his talents.

Farentino's special gripe is with the television producers who cram a show full of stars simply for their name value. He maintains that such a system cheats both the audience and the actors.

"It's disgraceful to use actors for name value. To use their names and not their talents is insulting," he said.

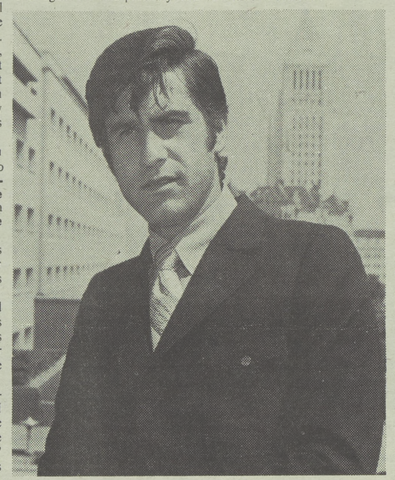
While filming for "The Bold Ones" he argued with his bosses on that issue, and, as a result, was suspended from the studio for three weeks. But he feels he made his point.

For television in general Farentino has stronger words. "When I sit and watch TV and say the commercials are better than the programs, that's the bottom line."

He thinks the basic problem is the narrow range of programming. The solution, he believes, ultimately will be found in pay television which will provide viewers with a "wider spectrum."

Farentino was born in Brooklyn, N.Y. to a non-theatrical family. He joined the American Academy of Dramatic Arts just to see what acting was all about. After graduating in 1958, he followed the path of many an aspiring young actor and moved to Greenwhich Village.

He recalls his cold water flat on West 12th Street above a meat market and he remembers the enticing smells that drifted upstairs. "Those were the best years," he said. "You can't recapture them. But if I had to do it over again I would probably hate it because you get spoiled."



JAMES FARENTINO — a movie picture star looking forward some day to a film he can be proud of.

He got his first break on Broadway where he played the role of a beach boy in Tennessee Williams' "Night of the Iguana." He landed also several television dramatic roles in such programs as "Naked City," and in daytime serials.

He soon felt the lure of Hollywood, however, and decided his future was in the West.

Once there he played in more television shows — until producer Ross Hunter picked him, from over 3,000 aspirants, to star in "The Pad." After his success with that film Universal signed him to an exclusive contract.

Then came starring roles in "Rosie," "The Ride to Hangman's Tree," "Banning," and "Story of a Woman."

Farentino spent three months in Italy for the filming of "Story of a Woman." Although the trip itself was bad — "I'm frightened to death of air travel" — he loved the Italians. Months later he still spoke of their warmth and sincerity: "If they liked you they liked you."

Now he has formed a production company. When asked why so many actors are going into production, he replied, "To save the industry." He's just as articulate about the motion picture industry as he is about television.

"Thank God for the actors who are doing pictures on their own. They're succeeded in doing better things."

Another one of Farentino's gripes is the star system.

"Stars' salaries are ridiculous," he says. "If an actor has any love for his craft he doesn't need a huge salary. I guess it's security. At least if you aren't good you'll be rich."

In 1966 Farentino married actress Michele Lee. He seems pleased to talk about their life together.

"It's not running through daisy patches," he said with wry humor. "But we have a lot of respect and admiration for each other. On top of that we love each other.

"I guess we just have the normal, everyday problems of being married, which is a lot better than being single."

Career wise, Farentino's future looks bright, but he's a realist about himself. "I'm not out to fool anybody," he explained. "It can't all be one great motion picture after the other."

Still his optimism remains, "If it's not soon, it'll be later. This is my life, for better or worse, I'm stuck with it."

Among the new faces at Kings Castle of Incline Village is John Polando who has taken over the position of director of promotion and advertising.

Polando is a former Bay Area public relations firm owner and is well known for his work in publicizing and promotion of the Bear Valley ski area.

Assiting Polando is Glenda Phinney who will be working mainly in the area of publicity. Miss Phinney was formerly assistant public relations director for a South Shore hotel and casino.

One of the strong talent combinations ever to hit the nightclub circuit will open in Harrah's South Shore Room April 28 when Bill Cosby and Ray Charles share the marquee.

The two entertainers first shared nightclub billing during the Christmas holidays when they appeared in Harrah's Headliner Room in Reno and drew great reviews.

Some of the most popular lounge acts ever to appear at Lake Tahoe are scheduled to return to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret in the near future.

Gaylord and Holiday are taking time out from their now busy television guest appearance scheduled to "come home." They will be in the Cabaret May 14 - June 3. Opening June 4 is the audience - pleasing Little Richard who always keeps the lounge filled to capacity.

Lenny Herman group performing at Top

The Lenny Herman Orchestra performs nightly to the delight of the patrons at the Top of the Wheel Tiki Lounge, Harvey's Resort Hotel, through May 16.

In the Theatre Lounge the Sultan's Harem Revue, starring Rikko and Tita, headline the marquee through May 6. Alternating is Tommy Butler through April 27, Prince Kowohi and the Greenwood Brothers through April 30, and Jody's Country Cousins through April 27.

COUNTRY KIN – Jody's Country Cousins, a lively group, is performing at Harvey's Resort Hotel Theatre Lounge through April 27.

MUSIC FOR DANCING – Lenny Herman Orchestra, one of the most widely recorded dance bands in show business and pioneer of recording stereo tapes, is playing at Harvey's Resort Hotel Top of the Wheel through May 16.

Opening in the Theatre Lounge April 28 are the Backward Door group and Martha Mason & the Music People.

Lenny Herman was chosen by Nevada's Governor Paul Laxalt to perform at the Governor's Mansion, being the favorite musical aggregation of the Governor.

Herman is prepared to defend his title of "The Mightiest Little Band in the Land." This quintet of versatile musicians can hold their own with any band as far as danceability and solid entertainment goes. Few bands develop the enthusiastic beat achieved with every tempo attempted and proof of their appeal is the number of people hoofing it on the Tiki Lounge dance floor.

Herman came West several years ago, having tired of the East Coast, its dwindling interest in live music and the then current record discotheques.

"I'm not against live music or against the new forms of music and the entertainment that come up," Lenny says. After all, Lenny can point to 2,500 recorded songs on half a dozen record labels. He also takes credit for pioneer work in stereo recordings, cutting the first 23 stereo tapes and cutting on to 16 stereo albums. He was once voted "King of Stereo" in a poll taken by hi-fi and stereo publications.

"But I think it's a shame," he continues, "when people prefer to dance or listen to a record than to see a live band. No matter how good a record is, it can't equal the enjoyment of seeing a performer in person."

The many people who crowd the 11th floor Top of the Wheel to hear and dance to Herman's music obviously agree with him. He plays to and for the audience. He's never sure what he's going to play before reaching the bandstand, preferring to look over their age and enthusiasm, then calling out numbers to the boys in the band. As a musician, Lenny Herman asks only one thing of music - that it be played well.

The Sultan's Harem Revue, starring Rikko and Tita, is one of the most lavish costumed and original choreographed revues of its kind. The choreography, as originated by Rikko, is a feast for the eyes, with the exotic and beautiful East Indian dancing provided by Tito and the ensemble.

Tommy Butler continues to please his audiences in the Theatre Lounge. The minute he opens, with his golden voice, he immediately captures the audience with his mellow sound and exciting style. He is a singer who really "communicates" and whether it's a rock and roll tune or a ballad, jazz or gospel, Tommy sells a song as few artists in the business today can.

Martha Mason and the Music People bring a strong, much appreciated, range of vocal and musical selections to the Theatre Lounge.

FEMALE VOCALIST - Carol Howard is appearing with Jody's Country Cousins at Harvey's Resort Hotel in the Theatre Lounge through April 27.

It ain't true

NBC - TV's Dean Martin solemnly told a studio audience that all the talk about carrots being good for the eyes just wasn't true. Said he, "I stuck one in my eye and it didn't do any good at all."

After five, Tahoe's finest golf club turns into Tahoe's liveliest supper club.

At Harrah's Edgewood Room buffet, our menu is too good for words.

We put our menu on the line instead. No pretty phrases. No parchment paper. Just tempting buffet selections, right before your eyes. Served in the quiet atmosphere of a fine restaurant.

There's no wine list, either. Because wine is included with your buffet. Compliments of Harrah's.

This weekend, enjoy a candlelit dinner with the menu under glass. And bring the children along. They'll be wide-eyed at all those mouth-watering choices. It's Friday and Saturday, 5 to 11 p.m. Sundays, 4:30 to 10:30 p.m. Upstairs in the Edgewood Room at Harrah's Tahoe.

Harrah's TAHOE

IN JUNIPER – The Promises, three pretty girls with a wide range of musical stylings, are currently appearing in the Juniper Lounge of Hotel Sahara–Tahoe. Also appearing are singer Diana George and the musical–comedy geniuses, the Upstarts.

Trio back at Sahara

The pretty Promises, three attractive blonde singers from Ohio, return to the Juniper Lounge of Hotel Sahara - Tahoe for a special engagement beginning April 24. They come back to the South Shore following a month - long engagement at the Thunderbird Hotel in Las Vegas.

Together for four years, the group has gained in popularity during an almost non-stop schedule which has found them playing from clubs near their hometown of Cleveland to military bases in Alaska.

But much of the Promises' success story was written in Nevada.

Mona Garcia, Cheri Brewer and Sandi Mooney arrived in Las Vegas in 1968 after an extensive road trip which had seen them in Alaska to the north and the Bahamas to the south. They were working enough, but the places weren't the greatest and the travel was difficult.

When they arrived at the Sahara in Las Vegas, the three began in an early evening spot, but ever fresh arrangements and never-ending-rehearsals soon payed off and the girls were signed to a long-term contract. And they were in the star time slot.

Now with the security of a contract and the opportunity to receive guidance from the top people in the entertainment business, The Promises have shown more promise than ever.

Polished delivery, sparkling choreography and excellent costuming (just to use a few adjectives) have created one of the most exciting acts to come along in years.

"Big deal," commented Mona following the above observation, "we still need a record or major television appearance to really make things happen."

And while this may be true, if hard work, dedication and pure talent can provide the springboard . . . then The Promises are the best bet to come along in years.

HAS TITLE ROLE - This is the animated version of Fat Albert, a comic character created by NBC-TV star Bill Cosby. Fat Albert has top billing in "Hey, Hey, Hey - It's Fat Albert," the first animated special based on the Cosby comedy characters, which will have an encore colorcast on the NBC Television Network Monday, April 27.

TALENTED MISS – Swinger, singer Diana George, a pretty genius of musical comedy, continues to be a nightly favorite in the Sahara–Tahoe's Juniper Lounge. A favorite of other entertainers, Miss George has been likened to the great Fanny Brice by another great entertainer, Jimmy Durante. Versatile and delightful, Diana entertains through May 17.

Smothers to return

"The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour," a comedy-variety summer series signalling the return of the celebrated singer-comedians to network television, will premiere on the ABC Television Network Wednesday, July 8.

An entertainment program emphasizing the singular talents of Tom and Dick Smothers, the series will also feature the wry humor of Pat Paulsen and introduce a major guest star each week. The program will be performed before live audiences at ABC studios in Hollywood.

"The Engelbert Humperdinck Show," currently seen Wednesday, 10-11 p.m. will move to Saturdays on July 11, and will be presented 9:30 - 10:30 p.m. PDT.

On the job

The stage dressing room of Brandon Cruz, 7-year-old star of ABC Television Network's "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," is his toyland. The small trailer is always stocked with toy cars and a train set, sometimes a puppy and once a kitten.

Judy Lynn heads billing in Stateline Cabaret

Judy Lynn, one of the top female Country and Western singers in the country, and hypnotist Arthur Ellen each began three-week engagements April 23 as co-headliners in Harrah's Statlein Cabaret.

The Academy ofCountry and Western Music again nominated Miss Lynn as one of the top finalists in the female vocalist category for last year. She is a perennial finalist.

In addition, the Judy Lynn Band was nominated as one of the top five finalists in the "Band of the Year" category. The Academy's awards show was held last week.

The much-traveled Miss Lynn recently finished engagements in Seattle, Anchorage, Miami, Las Vegas, San Jose and Harrah's Reno.

When at Harrah's Reno last February Columbia Records produced an album, "Judy Lynn Sings Live at Harrah's".

Ellen, hypnotist extraordinaire, says of his craft, "The subject is the one who determines the success or failure. Under the relaxation of hypnosis I'm usually able to demonstrate to a subject that he's able to do the very thing he hasn't the conscious or confidence to do."

The famed hypnotist saved Jackie Jensen's baseball career by helping him to get over his fear of flying, and did the same for screen star Tony Curtis.

The Kimberlys, who scored their debut at Harrah's Tahoe last October and found immediate success, returned April 23 for three weeks.

The group is composed of two brothers, Harold and Carl, who are married to twin sisters Vera and Verna. Also in the group are Byron Allen and Cousin Jack Gray.

While the Kimberlys favor Country and Western numbers, they also blend popular songs and ballads.

Recently, they released an RCA Victor album teaming with Wayland Jennings and have also come up with a single hit, "MacArthur Park", which was among the top 20 for months.

The Brothers Kim, from the same family of the talented Kim Sisters, opened April 23 for two weeks also.

Between the three of them they play guitar, bass, banjo, sax, trombone, clarinet, flute and several other instruments.

WESTERN QUEEN - Judy Lynn, one of the finest names in Country Western music today, brings her music to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks. Miss Lynn opened April 23.

SECOND TIME AT TAHOE - The Kimberlys, who gained a steady following during their debut at Harrah's Tahoe last October, return for three weeks, performing through May 13 in the Stateline Cabaret.

UNIQUE ACT - The eyes of hypnotist Arthur Ellen will be upon you if you drop by Harrah's Stateline Cabaret between April 23 and May 13.
